Defeat of Col. Hawkins' Controller Bill in the Assembly.

Mr. Twombly's Substitute Adopted by a Vote of 71 to 41.

The Committee of Seventy and the Proposed New-York Charter.

How the Erie Ring Hope to Avoid Defeat.

A Curious Clause in an Innocent Bill Discovered.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Monday, Jan. 22, 1872.

The first experiment of holding a Monday morning session of the Assembly cannot be regarded as successful, so far as the attendance of members is concerned, for at no time during the session this morning was there a quorum present. Nevertheless it afforded an opportunity for the introduction of several new bills and for discussing several old ones in Committee of the Whole.

Among the latter was PRINCE'S bill to enable two Grand Juries to hold sessions at the same time in New-York with concurrent jurisdiction. Speaker SMITH proposed an amendment, which was adopted, providing that after either Grand Jury shall have presented an indictment against a person the other jury shall take no further action in relation to the same subject-matter. This was necessary to prevent two indictments being found against the same person for the same offense, which indictments might possibly charge crime of different grades. As amended the bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading. It will be recollected that the bill passed last week only applied to the two Grand Juries lately in session, and extends only to the 27th inst. The present bill is designed to be permanent. Mr. NILES' bill to dispense with the necessity of "affidavits of merits" to prevent inquests, was also considered in Committee of the Whole and killed by striking out the enacting clause.

MR. HUSTED EXPLAINS.

After the reading of the journal, this morning, Mr. HUSTED, of Westchester, rose to a question of privilege, and called the attention of the House to sundry articles, editorial and otherwise, that have appeared, from time to time, in the NEW-YORK TIMES, reflecting on his integrity in connection with the Peekskill Gravel Company, and its transactions with the Central Park Commission. He contradicted in general and in detail every charge, allegation, or insinuation of fraud or unfair dealing on the part of the Company, and after reading his written explanation, asked the House, or any member of it, as a favor to him, to institute a full and thorough investigation into the whole affair, provided any one was not entirely satisfied with the explanation made by him.

Col. HAWKINS said that he was fully conversant with the facts that led to the articles in the TIMES; that the information was furnished to that paper by a man named RIDER, connected with the Central Park, and, like other exposures of fraud and rascalities made by the TIMES, it was published with a single eye to the public good, and with no personal malice against any individual.

Mr. ALVORD here rose to a question of order. He said his point of order was that there was no question before the House, and, unless the gentleman intended to contradict the facts stated in Mr. HUSTED'S explanation, and ask for an investigation, there was no pertinency in his remarks, and in any case it was necessary for him to rise to a question of privilege, in order to have a basis for any remarks at all.

Col. HAWKINS said he merely desired to vindicate a gentleman who was not here to vindicate himself, so far as to say that the articles were published on information supposed to be trustworthy, and were utterly free from malice.

No one appeared inclined to ask for an investigation, and the matter was allowed to drop.

THE TRICKS OF ERIE.

There is no doubt that the Erie Ring, or what remains of it since the death of FISK and the abdication of TWEED, are determined to test their strength with the present Legislature, the same as they have with previous ones, and will bring the same corrupt applliances to bear to perpetuate their power. The brains of the conspiracy still live, in the person of JAY GOULD, and, although its political manager and its advertising mountebank are out of the concern, the diabolism and the intellectual power is as active as ever. It would hardly seem possible, and yet it is true, that the Erie managers seriously design to prevent the repeal of the infamous Classification act by this Legislature, in the face of the fact that the Republican Party, which has a two-thirds majority here, has repeatedly put itself on record in favor of the repeal, and no longer ago than last Winter voted unanimously (WINANS excepted) to wipe it off the statute book. All sorts of devices are to be resorted to this Winter to furnish a plausible excuse to Republicans for not doing this session what they all insisted ought to be done during the last one. Allusion has already been made to the scores of remonstrances that have been sent up here by persons living on the line of the road, against any legislation that will permit the control of Erie to go into the hands of British monopolists. The bill to allow the Supervisors of Counties on the line to elect the directors is another trick in the interest of the present Ring. In addition to these more open devices they have already resorted to the tactics so often employed in legislation by the Tammany Ring, of smuggling into to an apparently innocent and unobjectionable bill a brief clause or sentence—a single word is often sufficient—which will secure their object without attracting attention. Thus, in a bill introduced in the Senate last week, relating to the holding of real estate by foreigners, it has been discovered that, among the items of real property that foreigners shall not be allowed to hold, is included "certificates of stock" in railroads—the bill declaring that any property so held shall be forfeited to the State. The bill was handed to a Senator of the most unimpeachable integrity, with a request that he would introduce it, which he did without reading, and had it passed the Committee without detecting the "nigger in the fence," it would have been printed with the apparent sanction of his name. When the Erie Ring is compelled to resort to such devices as this it would seem to be near its end, and yet, as before stated, it is resolved to test its power at Albany once more, and there are already persons here who are ready to bet odds that it will triumph over this Legislature as it did over the last. In my opinion they will be mistaken. S.

Defeat of the Hawkins Controller's Bill—Mr. Twombly's Substitute Ordered to a Third Reading—The New-York School Board—The New Charter.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 22.—The contest over the Hawkins bill and the Twombly substitute in the Assembly this evening resulted in the adoption of the substitute by a vote of 71 to 41. The discussion only lasted half an hour, the House having agreed on Thursday last to take the final vote at 8½ o'clock. Mr. JACOBS, of Kings, occupied the chair, and Speaker SMITH led off the debate by advocating the original bill reported by Col. HAWKINS from the Committee on Cities. Mr. ALVORD then took the floor in support of the substitute of Mr. TWOMBLY. At the conclusion of Mr. ALVORD'S remarks, Mr. TWOMBLY arose to advocate his substitute, but he had only time to say that he drafted it without the remotest idea of embodying in it anything of a partisan character, when the gavel of the Chairman announced that the hour of 8 o'clock had arrived, at which the vote was ordered to be taken. The first question, he said, was on the amendment substituting Mr. TWOMBLY'S bill for the original bill. A division being called for, the count showed sixty-two for the substitute and forty-four against. Several amendments were then offered and adopted, the most important of which was that all sessions of the Board of Audit should be held in public, and that no claims other than for salaries and wages should be allowed until they had been five days before the Board. Speaker SMITH offered an amendment weich he said he intended to make to the original bill that had been adopted, providing that no claims should be paid for which there was not a legal warrant or a specified contract, and the payments should not exceed the legal liability. This amendment was adopted after getting out of Committee of the Whole. The test was had on a motion made by ALBERGER, that the substitute adopted in Committee be referred back to the Standing Committee on Cities, with instructions to strike out all after the enacting clause, and to insert the original bill of Mr. HAWKINS. The yeas and nays were called on this motion, and resulted—yeas 41, nays 71. There were sixteen absentees, as follows: Democrats—Buckley, Carroll, Chamberlain, Haughton, Osgood, Tilden, Wiley—7; Republicans—Crandall, Ely, Greenbalgh, Griffin, Hyatt, Morton, A. L. Vandusen, Wells, Wyman—9. The only Democrats who voted for HAWKINS' bill were D. B. HILL, of Chemung, and FOLEY and PAIGE, of New-York.

Telegrams were received today by most of the Democrats in the Brooklyn delegation, urging them in the strongest terms to vote for the Hawkins bill, but none of them obeyed. The telegrams came from Mr. KINGSLEY, the contractor for the Brooklyn Bridge.

The galleries were crowded during the discussion, and a large number of New-Yorkers obtained positions on the floor, most of whom were opponents of the Hawkins bill. The analysis of the vote does not show the same division that existed in the contest for Speaker, nor does it indicate a Fenton or anti-Fenton triumph, and yet many of the Fenton men are disposed to claim it as a victory for their faction. The result is to be attributed more than anything else to the idea in Mr. ALVORD'S remarks that it was due to the Republican Party that it should receive at least equal consideration with the Democratic Party, from a Republican Legislature, in the bestowal of power and patronage. There is little doubt that the Senate will promptly concur in the bill as ordered to a third reading in the Assembly.

The Senate held a brief session this evening, but nothing of general interest was done. A new bill was introdnced restoring the old Board of Education in New-York City, with the exception that it provides for the appointment of trustees by the Mayor, instead of their election by the people.

Gov. SALOMON and SIMON STERN arrived to-night with the new charter of the Committee of Seventy, which will be introduced in both Houses to-morrow. Mr. WHEELER, who has represented the Committee here for the last two weeks, has wisely abstained from taking any part in the contest over the Controller's bill, and the Committee of Seventy can begin their legislative labors with a clear and unprejudiced record. THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE....ALBANY, Monday, Jan. 22.

The Senate met at 7½ P. M.

Mr. LORD offered a resolution calling on the Superintendent of the Insurance Department for additional information as to the conduct of his department.

The following bill was ordered to a third reading:

Confirming orders in the Court of General Sessions of the peace in the City and County of New-York. The Assembly bill passed last session amending the act relative to the qualification of persons admitted to practice as attorneys, &c., in the Courts of the State.

The Senate then adjourned.

ASSEMBLY.

The Assembly met at 11 A. M.

Mr. HUSTED rose to a question of privilege, and spoke as follows:

Mr. SPEAKER: On the 30th day of December last, the NEW-YORK TIMES published an article reflecting upon my character as a man. This article, appearing before the organization of the House, I felt it was not a fit topic to discuss here subsequent to that organization. On the 3d day of January, a derogatory allusion was again made bearing upon the same subject. At that time I was confined to my room by illness, and was unable to reply. On Saturday last a direct imputation was hurled against me in the editorial columns of the same journal. To that article, couched in terms demanding a response, I now propose to reply, and I propose in so doing, to vindicate as far as in me lies my personal honor. I take this course, Sir, for one reason and one reason only. A leading journal of our party, which has been active in the cause of reform, to which we are all pledged, has made statements which, if allowed to pass unheeded by me, would undoubtedly prejudice against me even the fairest and most impartial minds. Therefore, Sir, a due regard for the good opinion of the public, and especially for that of my fellow-members upon this floor, compels me to make what, under other circumstances, I should regard as ill-timed and highly improper, viz.: a statement of my private affairs. The article is incorrect in many particulars, and was either inspired by pure malice, and written at the instigation of some personal enemy who had not the manliness nor the courage to appear under his own signature, or it was based upon information which had no foundation in truth. [The article from the TIMES, referring to the Peekskill Gravel Company, was then read, and Mr. HUSTED continued.] The facts are these: About the time that the Central Park was first laid out, a bank composed of ground of a very superior quality for road-making was opened at Red Hook, near the village of Peekskill, from which to the present time the Central Park and the Prospect Park have been supplied. A few years later other banks on the opposite side of the river, of the same general characteristics, were opened, and between the lessees of these different deposits an active rivalry sprang up. In the year 1870, in connection with other gentlemen, I organized the Hudson River Gravel Company, which thereupon entered into competition against all others. Very soon after the organization of the Company, the different parties in interest, finding that rivalry rendered their business profitless to all, and being without the capital necessary to make a successful contest, entered into the service of the Company, which thereupon supplied the City of New-York at the same prices that had ruled for several years. At the close of the season an examination of the books showed that the Company had lost money, there being less than twelve hundred dollars in the treasury, an amount insufficient to pay the salaries of the officers of the Company, which was thereupon dissolved by mutual consent, and has never since conducted its business. In the Winter of 1871 I determined, if possible, to make the business successful. I leased, in connection with Mr. FREAR, the Red Hook banks, at a rental of ten thousand dollars a year, and I also secured sub-leases of all the banks lying on Peekskill Bay, which produced a similar quality of gravel. We thereupon, under the title of the Peekskill Gravel Company, offered our goods in the open market at a fixed price, viz., $3 50 per yard, delivered at any point on the Central Park, in the City of New-York, and at proportionate prices delivered at any other points. The Commissioners of the Central Park sought to purchase from us at the old price. We declined to sell; we determined to have a profit on our goods or abandon the business. Finding our terms to be absolute, after some delay and after repeated efforts to purchase at a lower price, the Department sent us a requisition at the price named, and so continued to do as they from time to time needed material. Subsequently desiring screened gravel, they demanded our terms for that. We ascertained the extra expense to be thirty cents a yard, and we offered to supply the Department at that extra charge. From this difference in price we received no benefit, the additional amount being paid by us to the party who did the work. Such is the brief and plain but correct statement of this whole matter. If it differs in any way from an honorable and straightforward business transaction, I must confess my ignorance of the rules that obtain in the business community. As to the gratuitous, false and unwarranted assumption that any arrangement was ever made or entertained as between the parties in interest and any of the officials in any way connected with the Department of Public Parks, I have only to say that for such a charge there is not the slightest foundation. On the contrary, as I was informed by our Superintendent, the Department made searching inquiry and earnest efforts to obtain a similar quality of gravel from other parties, and it was not until they ascertained that none other could be obtained that they acceded to our terms. So persistent was that determination to procure material from other quarters, if possible, that they refused to make any contract for any specified amount, and sent their special requisitions only from time to time, as their necessities demanded. In conclusion, Sir, as to myself, I have only to say that I never exchanged a word with either of the Commissioners, or with any of the employees of the Department relative to the business. The superintendents of the Company are honorable and honest men, attended to all of the details, and had the sole charge and management of the books, and the accounts, which were always kept in perfect order, and which of themselves by a comparison with the records of the Department will show most conclusively that any charge of fraud, direct or constructive, is untrue in fact and unsupported by evidence. As to the immense profits that are reported to have been made, I state here unqualifiedly that since my connection with the business the profits have not exceeded ten per cent. on the gross receipts, and this fact the books of the Company will also show. In deference to public opinion, and the good opinion of my associates in this Legislature, I have given this explanation, and now, Sir, if it shall appear to any gentleman on the floor, after what I have said, that my vindication is not full, satisfactory and complete, I shall be only too glad to have such proceedings instituted by this body as will enable me to sustain by documentary and parol evidence the correctness of my position and the truthfulness of my statements.

Mr. HAWKINS said:

Mr. SPEAKER—I desire to make a personal explanation in relation to some of the gentleman's remarks. I suppose, perhaps, that there is no one on the floor of this House who is better acquainted with the circumstances under which those articles were written that leading journal than myself, although I had nothing to do with them—nothing to do with the writing of them—nothing to do in relation to obtaining the information upon which they were founded. I know positively that the information that was derived by the writer of those articles came directly from the office of the Central Park Commission, after Judge HILTON had left the presidency of that Commission. The facts, as I understand them, are simply these. The statement of facts came from the Central Park Office, and, the Central Park Office is responsible for these facts or these falsehoods whichever they may be. I believe the articles were sincerely written in the interest of reform and were not inspired by any personal spite or malice. They were printed by the proprietor of the NEW-YORK TIMES precisely as another article would have been printed in the interest of reform that had been presented to his favor or by a responsible man. That was the case in relation to these articles. I know positively there was no malice in them. They were inspired from a proper feeling of the responsibility of the position which the propietor of that journal feels that he holds toward the public, and, I know, for the purpose of ventilating not only other abuses but this one at the same time: "Going for Republicans," in other words, to use a well-known phrase, as well as the Democrats engaged in committing these frauds upon the public. The facts I understand to be simply these: That a man by the name of RYDER, residing, I think, in the same district with the member who has just spoken, had furnished gravel to the Central Park Commissioners from the date of its organization up to 1870, passed into the hands of the new Tammany Hall Commission, as we call it in New-York, for $2 40, pretty soon after the new Commissioners had taken charge, and Collector STEBBINS and Mr. GREEN and the other gentlemen had gone out of the management. While Mr. GREEN remained there he never was consulted, and he hardly ever saw the inside of the offices of the Park Board, and had very little to do with their affairs—in fact, was snubbed upon every occasion. Very soon after the new Commissioners came into power, they passed a resolution, without giving any authority at all for it, as I understand it, authorizing a contract or purchase of the new company to which the member has just referred, and the price under the new arrangement for supplies.

Mr. ALVORD rose to a point of order, and said: The gentleman from the Eleventh District of New-York is not speaking to a question of privilege unless he affirms the truth of the article, and then I will not interfere with him, or that he does not believe the statement of the gentleman from Westchester, (Mr. HUSTED,) and intends to move for a Committee of Investigation.

The SPEAKER—The Chair is of the opinion that the question of privilege belongs to each member as a question of right, and the subject is not debatable. The gentleman from New-York is not in order unless he rises to a question of privilege.

Mr. HAWKINS—I will rise to that question for the purpose of explaining, not an insinuation, not an attack, but as to the aspersion upon a gentleman who cannot answer upon this floor.

Mr. ALVORD—I insist upon my point of order that the question of privilege must be personal to the individual.

THE OYER AND TERMINER GRAND JURIES.

The Committee took up the bill providing for sessions of Grand Juries for Oyer and Terminer, and for General Sessions of Peace Courts in New-York at the same time.

Mr. ALVORD was opposed to the bill on the ground that it opened a door to conflicting action by the two Grand Juries acting at one and the same time.

Mr. SMITH said when the bill was up before, it was conceded that it should be amended, and he had prepared an amendment, and moved it, providing that when one Grand Jury has acted upon a matter before it, the other shall not act upon it.

Mr. PRINCE thought that this amendment would utterly destroy the effect aimed at by the bill. If the amendment is adopted, a party charged with great crimes can go before one Grand Jury and have himself indicted for petty larceny. This ties up at once the other Grand Jury.

Mr. SMITH replied that the same objection applied to the original bill. A party might be indicted by one Grand Jury for murder; then the other could follow with an indictment, in the same case, of mere assault, and the last indictment supersedes the former. He had, he said, endeavored to assist the gentleman (Mr. PRINCE) in perfecting this bill, and he believed this amendment was the best way to do it.

Mr. HAWKINS moved a further amendment, that no two Grand Juries shall take cognizance of the same matter.

Mr. SMITH said that if this was adopted it would leave open the opportunity to select his Grand Jury and thus get precedence.

Mr. HAWKINS' amendment was lost, and Mr. SMITH'S was adopted.

Mr. TWOMBLY, regarding this an important matter and deserving of further consideration, moved that the Committee rise and report progress. Lost.

The Committee then rose and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

NEW-YORK FERRIES.

The bill requiring the Bridge-street, Brooklyn and New-York Ferry Company to run boats every fifteen minutes, and making provision for paying damages, was gone through with, and ordered to a third reading.

The House then took a recess till 7½ P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

THE NEW-YORK CLAIMS BILL.

The House met at 7½ P. M., went into Committee of the Whole, and took up the bill providing for paying claims against the City and County of New-York, which had been made the special order.

Mr. H. SMITH, after disavowing any partisan intent in his action, said he was opposed to any legislation for New-York, except such as her interests demand. He was in favor of enacting at the earliest day a charter for that City which would confine to the citizens everything relating to their Government, which, for obvious reasons, should be reserved to the State. He was, as regards the question before the Committee, in favor of the original bill reported by the Committee, and opposed to the substitute. He saw no immediate necessity for a Board of Audit, and he thought this bill should not be embarrassed by any other question, because the employes and others having legal claims on the City and County should be paid as soon as possible. He was in favor of a reorganization for the City of New-York, but not in the interest of one party or the other. As to the question before the Committee, one bill brings in one set of men to pay these claims, and the other brings in another. He was in favor of the bill which would bring immediate relief to the creditors of the City. The original bill gave no new power to the Controller, except in issuing the bonds. It is already his duty, and he has the power, to make these payments. He stated that if the substitute was not adopted, he had an amendment which he would offer, and which restricted the Controller to paying only such claims as were authorized by law. He repeated he had no party interests to subserve in this matter. This was a question which both parties could stand side by side on. Let the Controller be authorized to pay these claims. Let him pay such as are authorized by law, and none others, and let him issue these bonds. That was all there was of this question. He appealed to members to remember that they were legislating on matters of great interest to the citizens of the Metropolis, and he called upon them to act without regard to party. Let us, he said, afterward give them a charter under which they can live and prosper and enjoy the privileges of self-government.

Mr. ALVORD said he was opposed to any Government for the City of New-York which does not give the citizens full control of their own affairs; but, said he, we have waited long and anxiously, and yet have seen no charter here. No action has as yet been taken in that direction. Knowing that there is great diversity of opinion as to the form of Government that City should have, it will be long before we can perfect such a charter as should be passed. In the meantime, from January to April there will be immediate wants to be met, and he wanted such action taken now as would relieve the Legislature from being called upon day after day for relief. He called attention to the extraordinary position affairs were in. This bill was part and parcel of a bill which was introduced on the first day of the session, and which contained powers granted to one man which were almost dictatorial. Those powers were eliminated from that bill, and then we all voted for it. Now we have another, and we snall have another and another until the charter is passed. What do we have in this substitute ask? Not that we have any doubt of the good faith of the man standing at the head of the Finance Department, but that there being other men of high position holding equally the confidence of the people, they should pass upon these accounts. Adopt this original bill and we show that we put in the hands of a Democratic power that we do not trust in the hands of a Republican. He deprecated any political distinction on either side in the matter. He had not done anything of that sort, and yet we see two of our leading public journals presenting the spectacle of making this a party matter, one in calm terms asking the Legislature to do what it can speedily to afford relief, and the other raising the standard of war and declaring that our action here on the bill would be the test of our sincerity for reform, and calling upon members here to beware how they voted or they would be classed among their enemies. Though this would not swerve him from the pursuit of the strict line of his duty, yet he called attention to it to show the extreme such matters are carried to. He said this matter should be so managed that no party should secure an advantage. He announced that if the substitute was adopted he would move an amendment, that this Board of Audit shall meet in open session, so that all can see that everything is done in decency and order. There were words which seemed to give almost unlimited power to this one man.

Mr. H. SMITH—State them.

Mr. ALVORD—Read a section of the bill.

Mr. H. SMITH—And with this amendment (holding it in his hand) his powers will be restricted.

Mr. ALVORD still insisted that the power was in the bill, nevertheless.

Mr. NILES rose to a point of order, and objected to the interruption of Mr. ALVORD.

Mr. ALVORD said he was willing to answer any questions, but not when put in an imperious manner.

The Chair ruled Mr. SMITH out of order.

Mr. ALVORD said he was not a schoolboy here, and considered himself the par of his associates. He would say what he had to say, and let anyone answer if he saw fit to rise in his place and do so. He then repeated that the original bill gave altogether too much power to one man. He concluded by declaring that he stood here for the Republican Party, to advocate its measures and principles at all times, and when that party was induced to act wrongfully it must expect to be set aside by the people.

Mr. TWOMBLY followed, but had not proceeded far when the Chair announced the hour of 8 o'clock—the time fixed for the vote on the question—had arrived.

The question was then put on the substitute offered by Mr. TWOMBLY, providing for a Board of Audit, and it was adopted—71 to 44.

Mr. H. SMITH then moved to substitute the original bill, with the amendment restricting the Controller to the payment of claims authorized by law.

Mr. FIELDS raised the point of order—that this was not in order, as the Committee had just rejected the original bill.

The Chair ruled that the amendment made the proposition a new one, and consequently was in order.

Mr. SMITH'S motion to substitute was negatived.

Mr. WHITBECK then moved an amendment providing that the meetings of the Board of Audit shall be public, that all claims shall lie on the table five days, except those for salaries and wages, and all claims shall be open to the examination of the public. Adopted.

The Chair stated that in ruling a moment since that the gentleman from Albany (H. SMITH) was in order, he found, on reference to the Manual, that he was wrong, and the motion made by that gentleman was out of order.

Mr. IRA D. BROWN moved that of the money paid out by the Controller none should be paid to sectarian schools.

Mr. J. H. SMITH moved to strike out the first section of the bill. Lost. He also moved to reduce the amount to be paid to $4,500,000. Lost. He further moved an amendment, the object of which was to substitute the Controller for the Board of Audit. Lost. Also, he moved to insert a clause restricting the Controller to auditing and paying claims authorized by law.

Mr. ALVORD moved to substitute the Board of Audit for the Controller. Adopted, and the amendment carried.

Mr. ABBOTT moved a provision to authorize the Controller to refund moneys advanced by banks prior to Dec. 31, 1871. Adopted.

On the motion of Mr. TWOMBLY, the sewer-cleaning was included in the provisions of the bill to be paid.

The Committee then rose and reported the bill to the House.

Mr. ALBERGER moved to recommit the bill to the Committee on Cities, with instructions to substitute the original bill. Lost, 41 to 71, as follows:

AYES.—Messrs. Alberger, J. H. Babcock, Beckwith, Berri, Burritt, Davidson, Eastman, Enos, Fiammenti, Foley, Fort, Geib, Haight, Hawkins, A. L. Hayes, Herrick, D. B. Hill, Hollister, Judd, Kennedy, Knapp, Lewis, Lippitt, Lott, Marcy, Moulton, Paige, Pell, Prince, Rice, Shepardson, Smith, Smyth, Snyder, Speaker, Springsteed, Strahan, Swain, A. L. Van Dusen, White, Yeoman—41.

NAYS.—Messrs. Abbott, Aitken, Alvord, D. L. Babcock, Badeau, Bemus, Bennett, Blair, E. E. Brown, J. D. Brown, Buell, Burns, Campbell, Chambers, Cook, Couchman, Dunphy, Dykeman, Fields, Fowler, Frear, Goring, Goss, Green, Gregory, Hart, J. Hayes, Healy, A. Hill, Holdridge, Houghton, Hungerford, Husted, Jacobs, Kingsland, Knetties, Lincoln, G. D. Lord, G. B. Lord, Loughran, Lynde, Mackay, Moore, Mosely, Squires, Tobey, D. Tompkins, M. M. Tompkins, Tucker, Twombly, E. W. J. Van Duzen, Vedder, West, Whitbeck, Whitaker, Woodward, Woolsey—71.

The bill was then ordered to a third reading. Adjourned.

NEBRASKA.

Contest Between the Governor and the Senate—His Office Declared Vacant—He Refuses to Recognize the Senate, Having Adjourned the Legislature.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 22.—Senator KENNEDY, having been sent for, arrived at Lincoln today, and a quorum was obtained in the Senate. The office of Governor was declared vacant, and a resolution was passed providing for the election of a Governor by joint convention. The six Senators who had adjourned the Senate on Saturday had left for their homes, also many members of the House. The House assembled at 2 P. M., and ordered the Sergeant-at-Arms to arrest Chief Clerk CROPSEY, who was absent, to compel the return of the journal of the House. Mr. CROPSEY refused to respect the warrant. At 3½ this afternoon Mr. CROPSEY was liberated on a writ of habeas corpus. There is no quorum now in either House or Senate. KENNEDY returned to his home, leaving the Senate without a quorum. Of the thirty-three members of the House, only eleven were present, and of the thirteen Senators, only six were present. The roll was not called in either House. Gov. JONES refuses to recognize any act of the Legislature, having adjourned that body on Saturday.

THE TAMMANY QUARREL.

An Address by the Sachems—The Resolution Excluding the Tammany General Committee Confirmed.

The Council of Sachems of Tammany Society met at Tammany Hall yesterday, JAMES B. NICHOLSON, Father of the Council, presiding, and issued an address and passed a resolution confirming the previous resolution passed by the Board of Sachems, excluding the Tammany General Committee of 1872 from the use of Tammany Hall. The following is an extract from the address:

ADDRESS.

By the Constitution and usages of the Society, the Sachems sustain toward the Society a relation similar to that held by the directors of a bank to its stockholders. The Sachems have the charge of and administer the property of the Society. The General Committee, usually spoken of as the Tammany General Committee, is a political association entirely distinct from the Tammany Society. The General Committee is elected annually, and but a few of its members are members of the Tammany Society.

The suggestion or idea that the General Committee, which is a political organization, possess rights in the use of the building belonging to the Tammany Society, derivable from the fact that some of its members are also members of or even Sachems in the Society, is wholly unfounded, as well as the notion that the Committee have any privileges of access to the real estate of the Society, beyond those resulting from mutual agreement between the Society by its Sachems and the General Committee by its officers.

Our legal position is clear. The Sachems during many years have adjudicated upon the regularity of Democratic County organizations, and these organizations supervise the necessary and proper machinery of elections. With the close of last year ended the functions and existence of the Tammany General Committee for 1871, and also possession of Tammany Hall, as accorded by the Sachems during that year.

With the new year 1872 the Sachems determined that, as the Presidential election approached, it was their duty to most carefully scrutinize, in the interest of the highest party success and union and harmony of party co-operation, the eligibility of any persons desiring possession of Tammany Hall for the purpose of supervising local Democratic organizations.

There were apparent in some quarters selfish attempts to move the wheels of party machinery in worn-out grooves, and to prevent a commingling of new elements with old ones. Appreciating, therefore, the traditional honor of the Tammany Society, its deservedly great influence during the past half century upon State and national politics, and recognizing upon the approach of a Presidential election the necessity and importance of throwing the influence of the Columbian Order in behalf of union, harmony and success, we determined to await party developments before surrendering or allowing to any Democratic organization the free use of the real estate under our legal control known as Tammany Hall.

RAID ON BROADWAY SALOONS.

Capt. Mount Makes a Descent on Three Disreputable Houses — Sixty-five Women Arrested—They are Discharged by Justice Dowling.

By direction of Superintendent KELSO, Capt. MOUNT, yesterday afternoon, obtained warrants from Justice DOWLING against PAUL FALK, EDWARD BARLOW and FRANK HUGHES, the reputed proprietors of three dens, for keeping disorderly houses in Broadway, namely, the Oriental, at No. 626; the Assembly, at Nos. 634 and 636, and Canterbury, at No. 652.

For many months past this portion of the City, which is known in the Police divisions as the Fourteenth Precinct, has had no equal, the most infamous quarters of the Metropolis. Under the rule of Capt. EDWARD WALSH, a protégé of the Tammany Ring, the precinct became a safe harbor for panel thieves, as well as for the vice that flaunted itself in the view of the populace. Latterly the last has taken its most insidious and dangerous form in these "pretty waiter-girl saloons," and it was not until Capt. MOUNT took charge of the precinct that any effort was made to stop it.

Armed with authority, Capt. MOUNT quietly made his preparations. Having a detail of twenty-two men, under Sergt. DOUGLASS, from the Sixth Precinct, which he placed in the rear, he put Sergt. SANDERS, of his own Precinct, in front, with sixteen men, and occupied the centre himself, with eighteen men. Giving orders that SANDERS should seize the Oriental, DOUGLASS the Assembly, he reserved the Canterbury to himself, aided by Sergt. OATES, and started from his Station-house in Spring-street at 8½ o'clock, and before his object could be guessed his three squads poured simultaneously into the three concert-saloons.

Rarely has a Police raid been more effective; none was ever more adroitly planned or thoroughly executed. As soon as the places were all secured and the uproar caused by the descent partially subsided, Capt. MOUNT, agreeably to his instructions, allowed all the men, except those connected with the establishments, to leave, but owing to the early hour at which the seizure was made, there were very few visitors in either of the places. The dens being partially cleared, the girls were made to cover their nakedness with shawls and cloaks, and were taken off in squads of three or four to the Station-house.

The number of arrests altogether was seventy-one, sixty-five of these being women, and the remaining six the proprietors and bar-tenders of the dens. EDWARD BURHAM, the keeper of the Assembly, gave his age as thirty, and his address as No. 20 Sixth-avenue. CHARLES KILBORN, his bar-keeper, was arrested with him. FRANK HUGHES, the proprietor of the Oriental, gave his age as twenty-eight, stated that he was a married man, and lived at No. 160 Sullivan-street. He was accompanied by his assistants, CHARLES EMMETT and VICTOR SAVIGNE. EDWARD GREGORY, the proprietor of the Canterbury, gave his age as thirty years, and his address as No. 5 Park-place. When the sixty-five women were conducted to the cells and passages in the Police station, the sight and the tumult was something to be remembered. The uproar was terrible, and the blasphemy and ribaldry indulged in by these unfortunates were perfectly shocking. A about 10:50, Justice DOWLING, accompanied by Superintendent KELSO and other functionaries, entered upon the scene, and changed the aspect materially. The first words uttered by the Justice, upon taking his seat, were to the effect that he did not think the ends of justice would be furthered by the detention of the women. They were accordingly all discharged with a warning. The doors were thrown open and the sixty-five women scampered down Spring-street shouting and laughing, their two hours' incarceration having seemingly had no effect whatever upon them. The six men were detained, and will be brought up for examination this morning.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—1 A. M.—The area of low barometer which was, Tuesday night, north of Lake Superior, is now over Lake Ontario, having moved south and eastward. Cloud and rain are now reported from Wisconsin to New-York, partially cloudy weather in Pennsylvania and Virginia, pleasant weather in the Southern and Gulf States. Brisk south-west winds prevail on the lower lakes and Atlantic coast, north-west winds and falling temperature on the upper lakes.

PROBABILITIES.

The barometer will probably fall with increasing cloudiness but pleasant weather in the Southern and Gulf States on Tuesday; falling barometer and cloudy weather prevail from Virginia and Tennessee to Pennsylvania; the area of lowest barometer move north-eastward down the St. Lawrence Valley, with cloud and snow in New-York and New-England; north-west winds, with cloudy and clearing weather, prevail with rising barometer over the lake region.

Dangerous winds are not anticipated to-night on the Atlantic or Gulf coasts.

The Tobacco Tax—Revenue of the Fifth Kentucky District.

The Louisville Courier-Journal gives the following monthly statement of the amount of money received for the years 1870 and 1871 from the sale of tobacco and cigar stamps by JAMES F. BUCKNER, Collector Internal Revenue Fifth Kentucky District:

The Third-Avenue Savings Bank.

It was expected that the excitement occasioned by the collapse of the Market Bank, and the general distrust of such institutions in the public mind, would have increased the run upon the Third-avenue Savings Bank. Such did not prove the case, the run being the smallest since the 2d of January. The bank was open two hours last night, in addition to the five ordinary banking hours. During this time $47,000 was drawn out by depositors. The President, Mr. LYON, in answer to the allegations in a morning journal, states that such are entirely untrue, and the result of nothing but malice. He further says, in answer to the charge made by the same journal, that the bank had sunk large sums of money in "rotten Southern bonds," that the only Southern bonds purchased by the bank are the following: Georgias, old bonds, $50,000, paying seven per cent. interest; Alabamas, old bonds, $75,000, paying 8 per cent.; Louisiana 7s, old bonds, $100,000, paying eight per cent., and $3,500 Virginias, which are quoted at 65. All these, he alleges, can be sold at any time at a premium.

ITALY.

Parliament's Vacation—The Course of the Tiber—Mamiani's Lectures—The Death of Civinini—A Congress of Telegraphers.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ROME, Monday, Dec. 25, 1871.

Parliament has gone home for the Christmas vacation, to come back again on the 15th of January. The Deputies may return, each to his own family and community, with pleasanter hopes and memories than they have ever before experienced. The architects have crowned the edifice of Italian unity, and the nation is for the first time, and after a long period of working and waiting, master in its own house. The King has kept his promise, and lawmakers and people have kept theirs. In the population is rapidly developing the manliness which will enable the country to stand up with firmness if there are any new attempts of foreign aggression. Self-reliance and confidence grow together, and with these Italy will be able before long to fight her own battles.

THE COURSE OF THE TIBER.

I intended before this to speak of the report made to the Municipality of Rome by the Commission appointed to see what can be done to give a better direction to the waters of the Tiber. One of the plans recommended in the report has been adopted by the Civil Council, and as it has been published the people of Rome have an opportunity to judge of its merits. It is laid out to raise an embankment on both sides of the Tiber, beginning at the Milvian Bridge, and continued to a point below the city. The dyke will have sufficient elevation to hinder the overflow of the river in times of the highest flood, and on the summit of the quay streets of the width of about forty-six feet will be laid out. It is a repetition of the Thames and Seine embankments, on a smaller scale. Another arch will be added to the bridge of St. Angelo, and to make place for it some of the outer constructions of the fortified sepulchre of HADRIAN will be destroyed. The bed of the river will be widened and deepened, and a part of the island of St. Bartholomew removed, with the demolition and reconstruction of the two bridges—Ponte Cestio, and Ponte Fabricio—which connect it with the opposite banks of the river. The whole drainage of the city, on both sides of the Tiber, will be carried off in two great egouts, with their openings into the river several miles below the City. The whole cost of the work, it is thought, will not exceed fifteen or twenty millions of francs.

MAMIANI'S LECTURES.

This week, Count MAMIANI, Senator of the Kingdom, gave the introductory to his course of lectures in the Sapienza, or University of Rome. MAMIANI is Professor of the Philosophy of History in this leading Roman seminary, a place from which he was dismissed by the Papal Government on account of his liberal opinions, and to which he has been restored during the past year. MAMIANI has the reputation of being the first scholar in Italy, and has written and published much in prose, principally upon philosophical subjects, as well as some poems, which are placed among the classics of contemporary Italian literature. He is now advanced in life, and his physical vigor is impaired; but his love and enthusiasm for learned studies is not diminished, nor his desire to inspire the minds of the rising generation of Italians with his own elevated sentiments. In the vale of life his steps are lighted and cheered by the rising sun of Italy, shining over the mountain tops, and in his heart flames he same ardor which quickens the hopes and aspirations of the young men of the country. He is one of them in feeling, and the company—of well toward a thousand—which filled the large room of the University on the occasion of the first lecture, was a proof of the admiration of the students for the learned Professor and leading citizen. THE CUSTOM-HOUSE.

The Congressional Committee's Work Yesterday.

Col. Leet, of Leet & Stocking, Examined—A Searching Inquiry into the General Order Business.

The Senatorial Committee spent all day yesterday in hearing the testimony of Col. LEET, of LEET & STOCKING, the General Order warehousemen whose names have been brought so prominently before the public during this investigation. His examination was very searching, and frequently had to do with matters entirely personal, having no connection with the alleged Custom-house frauds which it is the Committee's duty to inquire into. Mr. LEET detailed at length his experience in the army, from the time he entered as a private until he left it as a Colonel on Gen. GRANT's staff, and came to New-York with a letter of introduction from the President to Collector GRINNELL, and went into the General Order business, first with Mr. BIXBY, afterward with his present partner, Mr. STOCKING. He denied repeatedly, and in the most emphatic manner, that any one whatever, except his partner and himself, is or was interested in any pecuniary way in the business carried on by them. He was also positive in asserting that no improper means have ever been used in influencing their business affairs in any way.

He described minutely their manner of conducting matters at their warehouses, but as that portion of his testimony was identical with what has already been published on the subject in the TIMES, it is not here repeated. Below will be found a detailed report of all that was interesting in his testimony:

MORNING SESSION.

At the opening of the session, yesterday morning, a letter was read from Mr. ARTHUR STRYBOS, of No. 173 Thompson-street, complaining of insolence on the part of the Custom-house officials.

MR. LEET ON THE STAND.

GEORGE K. LEET's name was called. He was examined by Senator BUCKINGHAM, and testified: Came here in the Spring of 1869; I have been engaged in the bonded warehouse business for about nineteen months; I had an interest in the business with Mr. BIXBY from July, 1869, to May, 1870, amounting to, I think, about $5,000 a year.

Q.—What part did you take in carrying on the business? A.—No part, Sir, I was away from the City most of the time. The partnership was brought about by other parties, Mr. GRINNELL, I believe. I had very little to do with it. It was engineered by Mr. LINDSAY and Mr. GRINNELL. I saw Mr. BIXBY once or twice after being informed this arrangement would be made, and talked with him on the subject. There was really little said and less done. Mr. BIXBY gave me the money because I enabled him to secure a portion of the General Order business through Mr. GRINNELL. I asked a favor of Mr. GRINNELL, and the business was given to Mr. BIXBY for our benefit. I knew Mr. GRINNELL through a letter of introduction I received from the President, which I handed to him. The letter was then read as follows:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19, '69.

M. H. Grinnell:

DEAR SIR: This will introduce to you Col. G. K. LEET, who served under me from early in the war to the present day, from the fall of Vicksburg forward as a staff officer. He is a business man of unquestioned integrity. His experience before the war fits him for business of almost any kind. He now proposes to resign from the army to engage in private life, and I cheerfully commend him as possessing all the qualities necessary to inspire confidence. Yours truly, (Signed,) U. S. GRANT.

Witness resuming—I had a letter from Mr. WASHBURNE, our present Minister to France; I have not this letter now.

Q.—Do you think it was through the influence of these letters that the favor was given to you? A.—Well, I know, Sir: Mr. GRANT seemed to have a high regard for those who served in the army; I had before been in a business of a similar character to the General Order business.

Q.—Was there any understanding between you and any officer of the Government by which they were to be benefited by your appointment? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Have you any interest in the storage or transportation of these goods? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Have you any interest in the transportation or storage of any goods except those you speak of under General Order? A.—No, Sir; we have no understanding with the inspector in regard to getting goods to bring to the store. The inspector is directed to send goods from the dock when they are not claimed, and we have no arrangement with him.

Q.—You have no collusion with him? A.—No, Sir. I have not, and my partner has not to my knowledge.

Q.—When do you give the carman the receipt? A.—He never gets it. The inspector gets it.

Q.—Suppose a package is delivered in good order to the carman, but is injured on the way, what then? A.—We should mark it in bad order and hold him responsible. He is under bonds by the Government, and is responsible for damages. We are liable, of course, if goods leave our store in a worse condition than that in which they were received. [The witness then described the indications of packages being in bad order, precautions at the storehouse, &c.]

Q.—Have there been any claims made against you for losses? A.—Yes, Sir; there was a claim made for $700, for damage to a case of human hair, or obstruction of it; we refused to pay it, and the importer went to the Collector; he referred the matter to us, and we reported on it; a suit was brought against us, and that has not been determined yet; we have allowed no claim; we are under bonds to the Government to the amount of $340,000 to protect it against smuggling, and assist in the collection of its revenues; the bond is a general one, merely specifying that we are responsible for the delivery of goods in the manner in which they are received; Col. STOCKING is my only partner; no other person has any interest in our business.

Q.—Has any other person any interest in your firm? A.—No, Sir; we have been since June, 1870. The expenses of our business to the 31st December, 1871, for rent, labor, &c., has been $94,311 64. This sum does not include cartage. Our receipts during that time have been $203,936 58. The expenses for cartage have been $31,596 99. Our capital in the warehouse have been between $6,000 and $8,000 a year. [Senator HOWE questioned the witness as to his experience in the army.]

Q.—Did you have any other letter from the President to Mr. GRINNELL than that you have produced here? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—How happened he to give you that letter? A.—I had made up my mind to resign, and had heard something of the General Order business before that time. I went to Mr. WASHBURNE, shortly before Mr. GRINNELL's appointment, and asked for a letter to him. I asked the President, the following day, for permission to see Mr. GRINNELL, and he gave me that letter, which has been read. Mr. GRINNELL had not been then appointed, and told him he would be. I mentioned the circumstance to the President, having seen it in the newspapers, and he asked me why I thought he would be appointed. At the time I got this letter from the President I did not let him know I desired to become an applicant for a portion of the General Order business. I mentioned it to him casually on another occasion, and he did not seem to know what the business was.

Q.—We have in evidence a letter written by Mr. GRINNELL to Mr. LINDSAY, authorizing the transfer of a portion of the General Order business to any person whom he might desire. A.—I heard of such a letter.

Q.—The Committee is informed that, in compliance with that order, a portion of the business was given to Mr. BIXBY and yourself. A.—Yes, Sir. I don't know why it was given to him, and not to me personally.

Q.—Did you threaten any one that unless Mr. GRINNELL gave you that business another Collector would be appointed? A.—No, Sir, for I had no influence to justify it. When I first went into the business no one was interested in it but Mr. BIXBY.

Q.—Did Gen. PORTER have any interest in it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did he never have benefit from it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was Gen. BABCOCK interested in it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did he ever receive any benefit from it? A.—Not a cent. This arrangement with Mr. BIXBY lasted about ten months. I did not belong to any "mess" in Washington at the time of my partnership with Mr. BIXBY or for years previously.

Q.—When this arrangement was made with Mr. BIXBY were you to have a certain specified sum or a certain share? A.—The arrangement was that I was to have one-half of the profits. There was a guarantee that I would receive $5,000 a year. While we were in partnership Mr. BIXBY had I believe two stores, one of which I only saw. After the termination of our partnership Mr. BIXBY remained in the business as warehouseman, and I entered into the business with Col. STOCKING and Mr. HORTON. We rented a store.

Q.—What share of the General Order business had you then? A.—The French line, the Williams & Guion line, the Anchor line, and some other shops not run very regularly. The partnership between myself, Mr. HORTON and Col. STOCKING terminated after a few weeks. Mr. HORTON got frightened and wanted to withdraw, and we were very glad to get rid of him. We were equally interested in the business, and no one else had anything to do with it. The business has been increased by the Cunard, the National, the Hamburg, the Bremen and Inman lines since Mr. HORTON left. These were added about the middle of September, 1870, by direction of the Collector of the Port, Mr. MURPHY.

Q.—Where had the General Order business been done prior to 1870? A.—At the store of Messrs. MASON & CO., No. 563 Washington-street.

Q.—Do you know of any reason why Mr. MURPHY transferred this business to you? A.—I was informed it was owing to some defalcations in the business. Mr. MASON left the country about that time and has since returned. Their stores were taken possession of, and they have not been in business since.

Q.—What agency had Mr. LEWIS DENT in following you into this General Order business? A.—None at all. I only knew him to speak to him. I never spoke to him on the subject, and I don't believe he had anything to do with it.

Q.—What are your charges for storage and labor? A.—Our rates are $1 on an ordinary package.

Q.—Have you not charged higher than $1? A.—We have charged as high as $25 for a heavy package—an English carriage. It came by the Cunard line.

Q.—Do you know of any reason why charges for storing and handling in general goods there, are more than in bonded warehouses? A.—First, because they are handled oftener. They are sometimes handled five or six times, having sometimes goods in to us with a dozen marks. Then we must be prepared at any time to receive anything that is sent to us, even if it be a ship's cargo. We have to be more particular as to the selection of our men, and must have more than are actually required. In a bonded warehouse only two or three men are necessary. In our place we have about twenty-five laborers, about a dozen clerks, four Government storekeepers, night-watchmen, &c.

Q.—Suppose your ordinary charge was $25 a package, what protection would the merchant have against that? A.—He can refer to the Collector for protection.

Q.—Can the Collector compel you to reduce your rates? A.—He can, Sir; according to the rules of the Chamber of Commerce, adopted in 1867, he is invested with a control over our rates; he could take away the business from us if we could not arrange things quietly.

Q.—Have appeals been made against your charges to the Collector? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Has he ever ordered a reduction of the charges? A.—It has never become necessary, for we reduce them if we find them wrong. Our bills are made out by the book-keeper and his assistant. The charge is made by an expert who is in the business for a number of years. It is written on the inspector's ticket, and then transferred to the books. Mr. PHILIPS, an old warehouseman in New-York, is the expert. He has been in our employ almost, I think, since we started in business. He has been in that business with his father for a number of years.

Q.—A bill was sent here by Mr. STEWART, said to be a bill of yours, do you remember it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—If that is a true copy of the bill will you please see if the charges are correct? A.—I could not state without knowing the circumstances. The charges here are $1 75.

Q.—Do you see any reason on the face of that bill for charging that much? A.—Yes; we must have paid out seventy-five cents on the package, Judge from the bill. There must have been something more than the ordinary charges paid out. I infer it from the charge itself.

Q.—How do you know that you did not pay $1 25 for storage and labor there? A.—I could not say without knowing the value of the goods.

Q.—Did you ever complain to Mr. LINDSAY that your receipts were not equal to your expenses? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—It has been suggested that your firm has been in the habit of hurrying goods up to your store; is that so? A.—There is nothing of the kind. If we paid for it I have no doubt he could send goods to us quicker.

Q.—Suppose the order to unload is given immediately on the vessel's landing from the dock, will goods be sent from the dock to a bonded or merchant's ware-house, if permits were brought to the inspector before the goods are taken from the inspector? A.—Yes, Sir. It is not the order to unload that determines when the goods are to be sent. The longer the goods are on the dock the better opportunity is afforded the merchant to take them away.

Q.—And what is to prevent the inspector from making a storehouse of the dock? A.—It is optional with him to keep them there a certain period, but there is a regulation of the inspector which authorizes them to be removed before a certain length of time.

Q.—How are goods placed in your store? A.—They are arranged in tiers, with the tickets facing out on a gangway where we pass through.

Q.—Suppose a merchant comes and wants a package of goods, how long would it take to find it? A.—Not more than five minutes.

Q.—There was a complaint made here by an importer of cigars who said he was charged $2 50 for a package; do you remember that? A.—I don't remember the circumstance; I think he must be mistaken.

Q.—There was a complaint made by a Mr. NEUSTADT that $2 50 a package was charged for cigars? A.—There was a charge of $1 on the package for the transportation to the Government stores.

Q.—Have losses of goods from cases been frequent in your store? A.—They have not.

Q.—Have cases been lost? A.—They have not.

By Senator Pratt—What was the profits on the bonded warehouse? A.—$12,000 in a year.

Q.—And on the General Order stores? A.—$46,000.

Q.—What time do you and Mr. STOCKING devote to the business? A.—We give our whole time to it. When the Government locks are off we are responsible for all the goods; we guarantee the good conduct of all our men.

Q.—If I understand your position correctly, you and your partner are there by designation of the Collector, who takes charge of all unclaimed goods coming into the port, and you are in his place to exercise a supervision over these goods? A.—That is correct.

Q.—And he can dismiss you at any time? A.—He can remove the General Order business from our stores.

Q.—It depends on the judgment or caprice of the Collector, and the business is not permanent? A.—It is not permanent.

Q.—Have you any special arrangement with A. T. STEWART for storage?

[The witness here was questioned regarding the capacity of the stores.]

Q.—What compulsory influence did you bring to bear on Mr. GRINNELL to bring about the General Order business? A.—None whatever.

Q.—What political influence? A.—None, Sir.

Q.—Do I understand you to say that you do not directly or indirectly divide the profits with any one but your partner? A.—No one else is interested.

Q.—Has any one else got a promise? A.—No, Sir.

[Mr. LEET was here examined again as to his services in the army.]

Q.—What business had you first contemplated on leaving the army and coming to New-York? A.—General Order business.

Q.—Who first told you of it? A.—Col. MORRIS, one of Mr. JOHNSON's private secretaries; he could give me certain information on the subject; I had a desire to get a contract for the cartage in 1869, when I failed to get sufficient of the General Order business to justify me in taking a store; in 1869, in conjunction with WM. HOW, JR., I attempted to get the business; he offered to do the business for $75,000, and without my consent he afterward substituted $90,000; the previous rate had been $90,000 a year; Messrs. SPERRY, LAPHAM & RANDALL succeeded in getting it; they did it for $70,000; I had no negotiations in reference to the lighterage or any other business; I was not induced to believe that Gen. GRANT would favor me in procuring the position.

Q.—Did Gen. GRANT do anything in reference to the matter? A.—No, Sir. He offered me an appointment as Collector of Internal Revenue of the First District of New-Orleans.

Q.—Was Mr. LINDSAY in Washington pretty freely during the Winter of 1868-9? A.—I don't know, Sir. I saw him there after the inauguration.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. WASHBURNE what you wanted in New-York? A.—Yes, Sir, I did.

Q.—Had Mr. GRINNELL any official position at the time? A.—No, Sir. He was President of the Sun Fire Insurance Company. The newspapers pointed to Mr. GRINNELL as the probable recipient of the office, and I then desired to get an introduction to him. I have not Mr. WASHBURNE's letter with me, but I presume it is among my papers. It was a general letter of recommendation. I saw Gen. GRANT after this, and got the letter I produce. I requested Mr. GRINNELL to return it to me.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. GRINNELL of his probable appointment? A.—Yes, Sir. He seemed to expect it. I told him I desired to leave the army and enter a regular business in New-York. He gave me a promise and encouragement.

Q.—Did your negotiations with him commence immediately on his appointment? A.—No, Sir; not for about ten days. I called to see him at the Custom-house.

Q.—Do you believe that Mr. LINDSAY was acquainted with Mr. GRINNELL before his appointment? A.—I never saw them together. Afterward Mr. LINDSAY professed to have private relations with Collector GRINNELL.

Q.—Do you know of any influence brought to bear upon Mr. GRINNELL to bring Mr. LINDSAY into his confidence? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Have you seen the letter written by Mr. GRINNELL asking him to come? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—In 1867 had you not confidential correspondence with Mr. LINDSAY in relation to this business? A.—There were frequent letters written by him to me. I only wrote to him once a week.

Q.—Did you have correspondence with him in reference to the length of time he would remain in office? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Has there not been a confidential correspondence between you, touching Mr. GRINNELL's collectorship? A.—I don't remember anything of the kind, Sir. I don't believe it is probable.

Q.—Will you say you did not have such correspondence? A.—No, Sir. The first store I got for the business was the one in Washington-street. No one but a Government officer can get in there without breaking the locks.

Q.—I understand you to say Mr. LINDSAY engineered this matter with Mr. BIXBY? A.—Yes, Sir. He wanted Mr. BIXBY to be more liberal in his terms. I heard Mr. BIXBY's testimony. This document (produced) is in my handwriting. It is the agreement we made, but was never reduced to legal form. I went to Washington after this.

Q.—Did you receive your remittances for Mr. BIXBY through Mr. LINDSAY? A.—Mr. LINDSAY received it and paid it to me as I wanted it.

Q.—How long did you continue satisfied with the arrangement of BIXBY? A.—I was satisfied with it until I could leave the army. I was not dissatisfied with the arrangement, but the amount was not what I wanted. I desired to do the business myself in my own name. The arrangement I had with Mr. BIXBY was not very well known. It was never mentioned to Gen. PORTER and BABCOCK, and they did not know I was interested in the General Order business until after the Investigating Committee last year. On the 17th of June, 1870, I think I terminated my connection with Mr. BIXBY and procured different stores in which to conduct the business myself. When I got my new stores no increase of the business took place.

Q.—When did you get the monopoly of the North River business? A.—About the month of September.

Q.—Who was the lessee of the new firm's warehouse? A.—Mr. HORTON, Col. STOCKING, myself and Mr. HORTON signed the bond; the firm's name was L. HORTON & Co.; I had known Col. STOCKING a year before that; I had never any business connection with Mr. STOCKING; I don't think I ever met him at the Custom-house; the proposition came from Collector GRINNELL.

Q.—How did you form this copartnership? A.—In the Fall of 1869 I met him in Washington very frequently; an attachment sprung up between us; in May following Mr. GRINNELL was with Mr. STOCKING, in Washington, at Willard's Hotel, and I think it was there he suggested it.

Q.—What was Mr. STOCKING's occupation then? A.—He was head of the Cartage Bureau. We rented the stores I now occupy on the 19th of October, 1870. After Mr. HORTON broke away we formed the firms which now exist. Our profits are equal though we have never made a division yet. There have been investments in our joint names of the profits of the business. Portion in bonds of the Western Pacific Railroad.

Q.—At the time you broke with Mr. BIXBY did you make frequent applications to the Collector to increase the business? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you express dissatisfaction at not doing so? A.—No, Sir; we were always on the most friendly terms.

Q.—Do you know whether Gen. PORTER visited New-York in your interest during the time you were endeavoring to procure this business? A.—I don't know, Sir, that he was here on that business. I met Gen. PORTER at Mr. LINDSAY's store, but I think it was only once.

Q.—During the time you were in Washington were you ever at the White House? A.—Yes, Sir. I might have addressed letters from the White House. I know Gen. LEWIS T. DENT; he was about the only one of that name I knew intimately.

Q.—How did you determine to conduct the business under two different names? A.—I cannot give you the exact dates. It was when Mr. HORTON withdrew from the partnership. At that time we had only one store under the name of LEET & Co. The other store, under the firm name of GEORGE K. LEET & Co., was established some time later. We opened two sets of books in connection with these stores.

Q.—Why did you take two names with the same parties, in the same place, and in the same business? A.—We wanted to see which firm paid best, and we had different accounts in the banks. The two firms were conducted very differently.

Q.—Are most of your bills for storage paid in cash? A.—Yes, Sir, and the remainder paid in checks; all our canceled books and checks are kept by Col. STOCKING, and, as far as I know, are still in existence; I have an individual account with the Phenix Bank, but we have two bank accounts in the firm name.

Q.—All goods are received by a Custom-house officer or clerk? A.—They are received by the clerk, under the supervision of the Custom-house Inspector; the latter is not always present; when the goods come in they are not measured, except by the eye; the expert does not examine them after they are delivered from the truck.

Q.—I understand you to say you know the contents of a package when the permit is presented? A.—Yes, Sir; it is a fraud on the doorkeeper, who hands it to the cashier.

Q.—Do you understand the Collector has absolute control over your charges? A.—He can order a reduction of your bill; I can understand why lower rates should be given by another warehouse, because of the competition.

Q.—Has either of your firms diminished its charges within the last six weeks? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—And you say that from knowledge and information? A.—I do, Sir; I never made the arrangement with the firm of A. T. STEWART & Co. referred to already, by which their was a reduction in their bills; there was a reduction, I perceive, but it was not authorized by me; I can't give any explanation of this deduction of the bill.

Q.—Do you ever obtain the average size goods on which your charges were paid? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—The day we visited the store it was unusually quiet—it was like a Sunday, as one of the employés said. It was 2½ when we were there, and yet there was a cartman waiting there since 12½, and he had only one package on his truck? A.—There was something wrong about the permit brought by the carman that day. We generally close up the store for one hour at noon, and if a carman came there then he should have to wait. The tabular statement I present here was supplied by our book-keeper, and I had no hand in it. The accounts of the two stores were consolidated.

Q.—How does your rate of charges compare with those of former years? A.—I understood that in 1862 and 1863 the charges for such packages were $1 50. On these charges we based ours. Col. STOCKING has charge of the office, while I attend to outside matters. Neither of us perform any clerical duties save drawing checks. I have to attend to the Custom-house. There are questions of overcharge, the arrival of steamers, &c., arrive daily, and I attend to them. Col. STOCKING has general supervision of the store, the clerks, &c.

To Mr. Pratt—I have no cousin on the Tribune named LEET. I made no statement to any person of that name that exorbitant charges and extortions were permitted under all Administrations, and that that was a plea for its existence under us. We have forty-five persons under us, and to see that they all attend to business gives us both quite enough to do. There has been a perceptible increase in the number and size of the packages recently.

Q.—What is the average money outstanding in the shape of advances to carmen? A.—I can't say, Sir.

Q.—Would you have any objection to allow an expert from this Committee to inspect your books and papers? A.—No, Sir; none in the world.

[A report of the proceedings of the evening session of the Committee will be found elsewhere.]

THE EVIL OF A MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Novel Suit in Indiana—$3,000 Damages Wanted by a Deserted Young Husband.

From the Indianapolis Sentinel, Jan. 20.

Some days ago was mentioned the failure of a suit for divorce by Mrs. ADA MILLER against her husband, SIMON R. MILLER. During the trial of that case before Judge BLAIR, it was intimated by several witnesses that the mother of the young wife was in a measure responsible for the separation, inasmuch as, being opposed to the union, she had by persuasion and open and avowed hostility against Mr. MILLER, induced her daughter to return home and sue for divorce. Although the decree was refused by Judge BLAIR, (it being shown upon the trial that the husband was kind and affectionate and provided liberally,) yet it left the man and wife more estranged than ever. Exasperated by this, no doubt, and charging that the wife's parents were to blame, he, through his attorneys, brought suit against them, (JACOB and JANE VAUGHAN,) laying damages at $2,000. This long complaint sets forth:

"That on Dec. 5, 1871, ADA MILLER was, and is still the wife of the plaintiff, with whom, up to that date, he lived on terms of affection and great domestic felicity; yet the defendant, knowing the premises, but contriving and wrongly intending to injure, prejudice, and aggrieve the plaintiff in his marital relations, and to deprive him of the service of said wife, and to alienate her affections, did persuade her on that day to depart from his house and service; by means of which enticement, &c., and on no other account, the said ADA MILLER unlawfully and without the consent of plaintiff departed from home and service of him, and hath continued absent, and has lost her affection for her husband and her domestic duties."

This suit, now in progress in Judge NEWCOMB's room, is vigorously prosecuted by BURNS, WRIGHT and RITTER, and defended by Messrs. BARBOUR & JACOBS. Mrs. MILLER is a graceful, elegant-looking lady, young and engaging in manners. Mr. MILLER evidently entertains a strong attachment for her.

Camels in Nevada.

From the Virginia City (Nevada) Enterprise, Jan. 13.

A train of over a dozen camels arrived in this city yesterday afternoon from the valley of Carson River, below Dayton. These "ships of the desert" were leaded with hay, in bales, for ADAMS' hay-yard on North D-street. The huge, ungainly beasts presented quite a picturesque appearance as they filed into town with their cumbrous freight. Upon arriving at the hay-yard, at the word of command, they all knelt down to be relieved of their loads. These animals appear to thrive quite as well in this country as in the wilds of Sahara. There are an abundance of deserts here if they are necessary to the comfort of the beasts.

Buildings in Boston.

More buildings were erected in Boston in 1871 than in any previous year. The valuation of those erected in eight successive years was as follows: 1864, $3,193,500; 1865, $3,832,934; 1866, $6,396,525; 1867, $7,981,300; 1868, $12,376,300; 1869, $11,956,400; 1870, $14,479,450; 1871, $16,921,700. The number of the stone buildings erected in the eight years was 365; brick, 5,588; wood, 4,511; in all 1,464. The total value, $77,000,000. The stone buildings were worth $17,306,398; brick, $45,000,000; wood, $14,625,260. In 1871 there were erected 93 stone buildings, at a cost of $17,306,398; 815 brick, $8,493,100; 1,188 wood, worth $3,774,000. The average cost of the stone buildings in the eight years was $47,412; the brick buildings, $12,363; and the wooden ones, $3,942.

Sherry vs. Lozier; referred to Hon. Josiah Sutherland to take proof of the matter set forth in the petition and report.

By Judge Brady.

Roberts vs. Fisher et al.; case settled.

The People ex rel. John Leach vs. Becker; appeal dismissed.

Robinson vs. Chittenden; case settled.

COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM—JAN. 22.

By Judge J. F. Daly.

Nolen vs. Learby; motion to open default of defendant Learby granted on payment of $10, costs to plaintiff. Defendant to serve his answer within five days after service of copy of complaint, and to proceed before the referee on two days' notice.

Michael vs. Jones; motion to commit third party for contempt denied, provided defendant pay to plaintiff $7 50 costs, and submit to examination forthwith.

Shortland vs. Rider; motion denied, without costs.

Lubin vs. Lewis; examination to proceed.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

No. 46.—Treblecock vs. Wilson.—Error to the Supreme Court of Iowa.—In this case, which is another gold contract case, the Court held substantially as follows: Whereas plaintiff here claimed in the Court below that he was entitled to have a note held by him, made by the defendant in error, paid in gold or silver coin under the Constitution, upon a proper construction of the various clauses of the instrument, and the decision below was against such right. This Court has appellate jurisdiction under the twenty-fifth section of the Judiciary Act to review the decision. The case of Rosevelt vs. Meyer, (1 Wall. 512,) overruled. Where a note is for dollars payable by its terms in specie, the terms (in specie) are merely descriptive of the kind of dollars in which the note is payable, there being more than one kind of dollars current sanctioned by law, and to mean that the designated number of dollars shall be paid in so many gold or silver dollars of the coinage of the United States. The act of Feb. 25, 1862, in declaring that the notes of the United States shall be legal money or a legal tender for all debts, only applies to debts which are payable in money generally, and notes obligations payable in commodities. Obligations of any other kind where a contract for money is by its terms made payable in specie or in coin. Judgment may be entered thereon, or for coined dollars. Mr. Justice FIELDS delivered the opinion. This decision reaffirms the case of Brownson vs. Rhodes. (7 Wall, 289.)

Mr. Justice MILLER dissents for reasons set forth in his dissenting opinion in Brownson vs. Rhodes.

Mr. Justice BRADY also dissents for reasons stated in his opinion in Parker vs. Davis, decided last Monday.

No. 75.—Christmas et al. vs. Gaines et al.—Appeal from the Circuit Court for the Southern District of Mississippi.—This bill was filed against Christmas et al., citizens of Kentucky, together with two others, citizens of Mississippi, having for its object to establish an equitable assignment of certain promissory notes owned by Christmas, for the purpose of indemnifying the citizens of Mississippi, joined defendants, who had become sureties of Christmas on a writ of error bond. The Court, finding the plaintiff to be a citizen of Kentucky, hold that the Circuit Court did not have jurisdiction, as the grant of power extends only to suit between citizens of different States; and further, that certain letters of Christmas, relied upon to show the assignment, were not sufficient to establish it, as they showed only a promise to pay out of the proceeds of the notes, and no intention to part with their possession.

Mr. Justice SWAYNE delivered the opinion.

No. 10.—Armstrong et al. vs. Morrill.—Error to the District Court for the District of West Virginia.—In this case the Court affirmed the title of Senator MORRILL to a tract of land in West Virginia, originally granted by the Commonwealth of Virginia to Albert Gallatin, from whom title is derived. Mr. Justice CLIFFORD delivered the opinion. Mr. Justice STRONG dissented.

No. 78.—Ducker vs. Spalding.—Error to the Circuit Court for the District of California.—This was an action to recover for the infringement of a patent for the use of movable teeth in saws and saw plates. A verdict and judgment were rendered for the plaintiff below, (Spalding,) and the case was brought here, where the Court now reverse the judgment and order a new trial, holding that the Court below erred in refusing to admit in evidence a certain patent which it was claimed was prior to Spalding's, and covered the same invention. Mr. Justice MILLER delivered the opinion.

No. 30.—The steamer W. H. Webb vs. Baring et al.—Appeal from the Southern District of New-York.—In this case the Court affirm a decree for damages obtained by the owners of the ship Shooting Star against the Webb, for alleged negligence in towing the ship from Portsmouth, N. H., to New-York, but with a modification that it be reduced to $18,000 damages and $250 costs. Mr. Justice STRONG delivered the opinion.

No. 38.—Curtis vs. Whaling.—Error to the Supreme Court of Wisconsin.—This was a controversy concerning certain lands in Brown County, Wisconsin, which had been sold at Sheriff's sale; and the question was upon the constitutionality of a law of the State requiring a certain notice to be served prior to the application for a Sheriff's deed. The Court below sustained the law, and this Court affirms the judgment. Mr. Justice MILLER delivered the opinion.

No. 190.—Bank of West Tennessee vs. Citizens' Bank of Louisiana.—Error to the Supreme Court of Louisiana.—Dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Mr. Justice SWAYNE delivered the opinion.

No. 71.—The State of New-York vs. The Central Railroad of New-Jersey.—Error to the Supreme Court of New-York.—Dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Mr. Chief-Justice CHASE delivered the opinion.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—JAN. 22.

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

The People ex rel. John T. Davis vs. Joseph Dowling.—This case, with two others involving the same questions, came before the Court on an appeal. Davis was tried before Judge Dowling, holding the Court of Special Sessions alone, was convicted of a misdemeanor, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for six months. From this an appeal is taken, on the ground that the act of 1870, constituting the Court, was in violation of the provisions

THE CONNOLLY SUITS.

Motion to Stay Proceedings in the County Suits—Judge Barrett Declines to Hear the Motion, on the Ground That He Was Counsel in the Suits.

The cases of the County of New-York with the Board of Supervisors, against RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, to recover certain moneys charged to have been unlawfully paid out by the latter from the County Treasury, were yesterday before Judge BARRETT, in Supreme Court, Chambers, on an order issued on behalf of the defendant, directing the plaintiff to show cause why the County suits should not be stayed until the decision of the General Term at Albany, in the suit brought there on behalf of the State, and which was argued in Albany County on a motion to vacate the order of arrest. It is claimed on behalf of CONNOLLY that the decision of the General Term at Albany will decide the question whether or not these suits can be maintained at all; that the subject matter of all the suits is identical, and the defendant should not be called upon to defend numerous suits based upon the same cause of action. Before the commencement of the argument, and while Mr. COURTNEY was reading affidavits on the part of Mr. CONNOLLY, Judge BARRETT inquired if this was not substantially the same action which was brought by Mr. HAVEMEYER against GARVEY and others, for fraudulent overcharges in connection with the new Court-house. If they were substantially the same, then he (Judge BARRETT) doubted the propriety of sitting in the case, inasmuch as he had acted as counsel in the other suits.

Mr. O'GORMAN explained to the Court what the nature of these suits were, but it seemed apparent to the Court that the suits were substantially the same.

Mr. COURTNEY, for CONNOLLY, and Mr. O'GORMAN and WM. T. CURTIS for the County, all urged that Judge BARRETT should hear the motion. It was purely a question of law, and one which they thought had not come before his Honor at any prior time in his capacity as counsel to the Committee of Seventy.

Judge BARRETT said there were no suits brought against Mr. CONNOLLY individually in the name of Mr. HAVEMEYER, but suits had been brought against others, growing out of the same matters.

Ex-Judge PORTER said, on behalf of the State, as well as on behalf of the County, that all agreed that his Honor had nothing to do with these suits. There could be no reason why the application should not be heard and determined by him. Interests of vast magnitude were involved, and by the order as now existing the case of the County is suspended in mid air. He concluded by saying that the decision of his Honor would be acceptable to all, no matter on which side rendered.

Judge BARRETT said, though he felt entirely capable of deciding the matter impartially, yet as a matter of judicial good taste, he did not think it would be proper to hear it. Indeed, he now recollected that he had even been consulted, and had assisted in the case of Mr. TWEED, which is really a branch in this case. If he had recognized at the time the nature of this case he would not have granted the order to show cause.

Mr. CURTIS then suggested that if his Honor had determined not to hear the case, he (counsel) would ask that the order to show cause be vacated.

Judge BARRETT said all that was necessary was to have another Judge to hear the argument; he would make inquiry if one could be found to hear it, and, if not, it might be proper for counsel to obtain an order to show cause before a Supreme Court Judge from some other judge. After consulting with other Judges, Judge BARRETT announced that a Judge would be in the Supreme Court, General Term, this morning at 11 A. M., to hear the motion. The matter was adjourned accordingly.

THE BROKEN BANKS.

The Market Savings Bank—What the President Had to Say—Action to be Taken by the Depositors.

The collapse of the Market Savings Bank, on Saturday last, has done much toward creating the feeling of insecurity among bank depositors generally, and the unsatisfactory explanations given have not lessened it any. The President, Mr. VAN NAME, acceding to the request of the depositors assembled, on Saturday entered into a brief and ambiguous statement of the condition of the bank. He stated that the collapse was as much a surprise to him as it was to the depositors; but contradicted himself by saying that he had feared this crisis for several days. An indignant depositor then demanded to know why he had received his deposit of $800 on Friday, at 2:55 o'clock, if he suspected the insolvency of the bank. To this Mr. VAN NAME vouchsafed no reply, other than that he had hoped that things were not so bad as they looked. He was further questioned as to why Judge BARRETT, who was in Chambers on that day, had not been applied to for the appointment of a receiver, and merely answered that Mr. JAMES DENNIS had been appointed by Judge BARNARD, the mention of whose name excited a howl from the crowd, at which the President hastily retired. The depositors assembled yesterday, though not as numerous as on Saturday, were quite as indignant. Several applications were made to see either the President or Mr. DENNIS, the receiver, which were invariably refused. A TIMES reporter called at the bank at 2 P. M., and was told by one of the officials that a statement would probably be made on Friday, the 26th instant. At about 3 P. M., the crowd of depositors, which had considerably increased, formed themselves into a committee on ways and means, and discussed the aspect of affairs with much energy. The general opinion was that the appointment of Mr. JAMES DENNIS, an ex-trustee of the Bank, whose bond is furnished by the President, as receiver, is an outrageous job. The conduct of Judge BARNARD, in refusing to appoint Mr. PETER VOORHEES to that office, has been applied to by Mr. CARPENTER, was denounced in strong terms. Mr. DENNIS, as a trustee, signed the bank statement of Jan. 1, in which the complete solvency of the institution is declared. It was finally resolved that a meeting of depositors should be held, to take action in the matter and have a new receiver appointed.

The Bowling-Green Savings Bank.

A petition has been filed in bankruptcy by AARON MAY, that the Bowling-green Savings Bank be declared bankrupt. The petitioner alleges that he is a depositor in the bank to the amount of $6,136; that the said bank, in fraudulently stopping payment, has committed an act of bankruptcy, within the meaning of the statute; and that a second act of bankruptcy was committed by it in procuring its property to be taken on legal process, with intent to defeat and delay the operation of the statute. Judge BLATCHFORD granted an order to show cause why the bank should not be declared involuntary bankrupts, the order returnable on the 3d of February.

Singular Suicide of a Woman.

Coroner HERRMAN held an inquest yesterday in the case of FANNY TEMPLE, twenty-nine years of age, who committed suicide by taking laudanum in her room, at No. 489 Broome-street.

GEORGE W. COFFIN testified that he had lived with deceased, who was a married woman. About a year and a half ago she became jealous and then threatened to commit suicide. When witness went home yesterday morning about 1 o'clock, deceased was out with a friend looking for him. When she came in, he was missed afterward, they had some words, when she went out of the room, returning almost immediately, sat down on the bed, with a glass in her hand, said "Good by, GEORGE," and instantly drank the contents. COFFIN snatched the glass, and, detecting the smell of laudanum, ran for a doctor, who soon arrived, and every attention was made to save her, but without effect, as she died at 11 o'clock in the morning. A verdict of death from suicide by taking laudanum was rendered.

Minor Crimes and Casualties.

A fire occurred yesterday morning in the millinery store of SAMUEL PEISSET, No. 733 Eighth-avenue, doing a damage of $1,000 to stock and fixtures.

FREDERICK UNFREITSCH, of No. 975 First-avenue, yesterday fell from the roof of a new building at Seventy-second-street and Second-avenue, and was seriously injured.

WILLIAM B. COSTELLO, alias Collins, was committed yesterday at the Tombs, on a charge of obtaining goods worth $78 from ZENO C. WATERBURY, No. 907 Fulton-street, by false and fraudulent representations.

ANDREW KELLY, about fifty-five years of age, yesterday fell in a fit in First-avenue, and died in a few minutes.

JOHN MURPHY, a seaman, thirty-six years of age, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital from an accidental gun-shot wound received several weeks ago in the porter-house No. 291 Avenue C.

REGINA BOYER, aged twenty years, died yesterday in St. Francis' Hospital from injuries received six weeks ago by an accidental fall.

Transfer-Books of Railroad Companies.

The President of the Stock Exchange, yesterday, sent to the various prominent railroad companies a communication requesting them—

"To conform to the usages of the Stock Exchange, by keeping your transfer-books open until 2½ P. M., except in case of the closing of your books for election, dividends or any other purpose, when you are requested to have them remain open until 3 o'clock."

Rev. Dr. Bradley's Defection.

Rev. JOSHUA D. BRADLEY, late pastor of the Church of St. Sacrament, West Forty-third-street, whose defection from the Protestant Episcopal Church has caused no small excitement in religious circles, will make a solemn profession of faith, and be received into the Catholic Church in St. Stephen's Church, East Twenty-eighth-street, by Rev. Dr. MCGLYNN, on Wednesday afternoon at 3½ P. M. The ceremony of receiving the convert will be carried out with strict observance of the forms presented in the Rituale Romanum, and an address will be delivered by Dr. MCGLYNN.

We notice with much regret the sudden death of Mr. WILLIAM A. KISSAM, late President of the Bank of Metropolis, and formerly Cashier of the Shoe and Leather Bank. He was a gentleman of high personal worth, and one of our most successful as well as prudent Bankers.

Mr. B. F. BEEKMAN, Receiver of the Union-square National Bank, expects to pay a Dividend of 50 per cent. about the 10th of February next, and desires all depositors to call at the bank and prove their claims.

The Controller of the Currency advertises a Dividend of 30 per cent. to the depositors of the Ocean National Bank, payable on or after Jan. 25, at the late Banking-house, No. 299 Broadway.

Messrs. TURNER BROTHERS will pay the coupons of the First Mortgage Seven per Cent. Gold Bonds of the Peoria and Rock Island Railway Company on presentation at their banking-house, No. 14 Nassau-street, on and after Feb. 1.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

THE 7.30 LOAN

HOME AND ABROAD.

The recent negotiations of NORTHERN PACIFIC 7.30 Gold Bonds IN LONDON, added to the previous LARGE SALES IN THE UNITED STATES, furnishes means for the completion of a large portion of the Road, and assures the EARLY ABSORPTION OF THE REMAINDER OF THE LOAN.

These Bonds are issued in denominations of from $100 to $1,000 COUPON, and $100 to $10,000 REGISTERED, have thirty years to run, bear an interest of 7.30 per cent. in gold, and are EXEMPT FROM UNITED STATES TAX.

They are secured by a First and only Mortgage UPON THE RAILROAD, ITS FRANCHISES, AND ALL THE LANDS AND PROPERTY NOW POSSESSED BY THE COMPANY, OR WHICH IT MAY HEREAFTER ACQUIRE.

The Bonds are offered at par and accrued interest in currency; and with their ample security and high rate of interest, there is no investment accessible to the people which is more profitable or safe.

JAY COOKE & CO.,

Financial Agents Northern Pacific Railroad Company.

☞ ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY'S FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND GRANT BONDS,

BEARING EIGHT PER CENT. (8 p. c.) INTEREST, PAYABLE IN GOLD,

FREE OF TAX,

AND IN DENOMINATIONS OF $1,000, $500 AND $100, can be obtained from the undersigned, or through the principal banks and bankers throughout the United States.

The attractive features of these securities are recognized in the fact that, although they have been but a short time on the market, they are nearly all absorbed, and but a small amount are now for sale.

They combine a perfect security with a liberal rate of interest. This interest account is made light for, and easily borne by, the Company, through the operation of the Sinking Fund created from sales of the Company's land, which, in many cases, know interest at the rate of ten (10) per cent. per annum. The security behind them is ample in every particular, as they constitute a first and only mortgage on a trunk line of railroad which will soon connect the City of St. Joseph, Mo., (an important railway centre,) with the Union Pacific Railroad at Fort Kearney, materially shortening the distance between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. In addition to this, the bonds have further security in the fact that there is included in the Mortgage the Company's magnificent Lands, amounting to 1,500,000 acres, known to be among the best in the United States. The Mortgage Indenture prohibits the sale of these Lands at less than Four (4) Dollars per acre, and payable to the Trustees under the Mortgage, for the clear and express purpose of retiring these Bonds. The amount thus realized exceeds the entire amount of Bonds which can be issued, and leaves the road, property and franchises free.

The Bonds have thirty years to run, with interest at Eight per Cent., free of tax, payable in February and August in each year.

Both principal and interest are payable in gold.

The principal in New-York. The interest in either New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, and in the gold currency of the country in which they are presented. They are coupons or registered.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

The present price of these Bonds is 97½ and accrued interest in currency, from Aug. 15, 1871. But they are receivable at par and accrued interest in payment for lands sold by the Company. The right is reserved to advance the present selling price without notice.

Maps, circulars, documents and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of this loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the Bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division eight per cent. (8s.) recently placed by us at 97½, being now quoted at from 101½ to 102½ and accrued interest.

☞ MIDLAND RAILROAD

FIRST MORTGAGE 7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS.

Limited to $20,000 per mile on finished road.

The rapid progress toward completion of this great Trunk Line from New-York to the West and to Canada, enables us to offer to investors at par and interest a further limited issue of these favorite securities.

Upward of 340 miles of this road, including the New-Jersey section, are already finished, equipped, and in operation; and contracts with responsible parties have been made for its entire completion by the first day of July next. When this shall have been accomplished its earnings cannot fail to be large and highly remunerative, as it has advantages at least equal to those of any of its competitors for both local and through business. It is building for cash, of which nearly $8,000,000 have been furnished by subscription to its stock at PAR. The work is substantial, and, including equipment, has not exceeded in cost $50,000 per mile, which is less than one-third of the amount at which some of the trunk lines of roads leading from New-York are capitalized, and on which they are paying good dividends.

In view of these facts, the Midland First Mortgage Bonds must be regarded as a first-class security—quite as safe as Governments; and, by making the exchange at the present difference in price, holders of Midland Bonds will receive 33 per cent. more of revenue upon the amount invested than the holders of Government Bonds.

GEORGE OPDYKE & CO., No. 25 Nassau-st.

☞ UNION PACIFIC BONDS.

The undersigned offer for sale, at the current market rates, the First Mortgage and Land Grant Bonds of this Company.

The First Mortgage Bonds, due 1896, bear the same rate of Interest as United States Five Twenties (six per cent. gold, free of tax); they are a first lien upon the Road and its equipment.

The present cash value of the Income and Land Grant Bonds and Stock of the Union Pacific Company is over $20,000,000, all of which, as well as the $27,000,000 United States subsidy Bonds are subsequent to the First Mortgage Bonds.

The Land Grant Bonds are a first mortgage upon the remaining 11,590,858 71-100 acres of land belonging to the Company, the proceeds of all sales of which are solely applied to the redemption of the Land Grant Bonds. The total sales of land to Oct. 31, 1871, were 480,141 29-100 acres for $2,080,831 83, averaging $4 33 per acre. The net earnings for the first six months (of the third fiscal year,) ending Nov. 1, 1871, were $2,850,219 94—more than twice the amount of the interest upon the First Mortgage and Land Grant Bonds, and about three times the amount of the interest upon the First Mortgage Bonds. The annual interest upon the First Mortgage Bonds is $1,634,270 gold; the annual interest upon the remaining Land Grant Bonds is $630,320 currency.

BANKING OFFICE OF TANNER & CO.,
No. 11 WALL-ST.,
NEW-YORK, Jan. 22, 1872.

To the Editors of the Evening Post:

In your special dispatch from Washington it is stated that the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company are prosecutors before the House Judiciary Committee in the controversy for the transfer of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company to the Atchison and Pike's Peak Railroad Company; that the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company have issued unauthorized bonds, and the amount of land claimed is not represented in the General Land Office as being under the grant. Upon inquiry from the officers of the Company we are directed to say that they have never appeared as prosecutors of the above-mentioned case; nor have they ever authorized any one to so appear; nor do they claim any lands from any Company. We are also directed to state, and of which we have full knowledge, that the amount of lands granted to the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company as withdrawn and certified in the General Land Office, exceed the amount claimed by the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, and form no part of the lands in controversy before the House Committee, which lands were granted to the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company, and not to the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, consequently the Denver Company have no interest in them whatever.

The Commissioner of Public Works finds that the interests of his Department require his constant presence at Albany, but he is the only person in the City who thinks he has any business to be there, trying to lobby himself into power by the aid of Tammany Democrats and Tammany Republicans. There is plenty of work for him to do at home. CHARLES G. CORNELL, one of TWEED'S bondsmen, is still the Collector of Croton Water Rates by the grace of Mr. VAN NORT, and if he is not removed soon, it will be proof conclusive that the rumor that Mr. VAN NORT is bound by a promise not to remove him is correct. HENRY STARKWEATHER, HOFFMAN'S father-in-law, still holds the office of Collector of Assessments, the fattest office in the City. Mr. VAN NORT'S bureaux are full of Ring officials in whom the people have no confidence—men who will, as one or two of them have done since they have been there, steal the books and vouchers under their control. If Mr. VAN NORT wants to keep his office, he had better stay in New-York and attend to his duties. If he will do that perfectly, and separate himself from all Tammany affiliations, there will be no difficulty in his retaining his position; but he must remember how poor dog Tray suffered from the company he kept.

Mayor HALL takes as kindly to the new Aldermanic Boards as if he had never threatened to do his best to keep them out of office. He has just addressed to them a message containing the usual amount of clumsy misrepresentation, and more than the usual amount of offensive and patronizing compliment. Before the Common Council proceeds to suggest any "amendments" to the present charter, it may be as well to remind its members that the only amendment of which public sentiment is likely to approve, will be its repeal. It may, further, be not unseasonable to remark that a body, one of whose first acts was the election of a Tammany politician as Clerk, has already sunk so perceptibly in public estimation that their recommendations will hardly command the amount of respect which might, otherwise, have been accorded to them. Should they proceed upon HALL'S spiteful insinuation, that they are a more genuinely representative body than the Committee of Seventy, they are likely to be very rudely undeceived.

Mr. HUSTED made an explanation in the Assembly, yesterday, with reference to that little transaction in gravel for the parks, to which we have more than once alluded. The unquestioned facts are these: The original Park Commissioners never paid more than $2 50 per yard for gravel. Soon after SWEENY, HILTON and TOM FIELDS came into power, the price was increased to $2 60, and ultimately to $3 80 per yard. The proprietors of the Company with whom HILTON & Co. dealt were Mr. HUSTED and "ALEC" FREAR. We asserted that the additional expenditure was an unjustifiable piece of extravagance. Mr. HUSTED says that he and his partner supplied the gravel at a fair rate; that it was a legitimate business transaction; and that he had no improper or secret understanding with the Park Commissioners. We must leave the public to draw their own conclusions about the transaction, merely saying at present that Mr. HUSTED'S conjecture that some enemy of his prompted our former articles is quite erroneous. Col. HAWKINS correctly stated that our information came from good authority, that we made proper inquiries before using it, and that we published our statement in the public interest, and not from any "malice" toward Mr. HUSTED—toward whom we have no feeling of any kind, good or bad. We hope to obtain further light on what still looks to us a very suspicious piece of business.

It will be seen from the report of the evidence taken yesterday before the Custom-house Investigating Committee that the profits of the General Order system have been absurdly exaggerated. It will also be seen, as every fair man anticipated, that there is not the slightest foundation for the insinuations that Gen. GRANT'S secretaries are interested, either directly or indirectly, in the maintenance of the system. This evidence Senators BAYARD and CASSERLY and the Tribune were anxious to keep out—the Democrats being animated by very much the same motive as the Republican paper. Here, however, is a specimen of the testimony given:

Q.—Did Gen. PORTER have any interest in it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did he never have benefit from it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was Gen. BABCOCK interested in it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did he ever receive any benefit from it? A.—Not a cent. This arrangement with Mr. BIXBY lasted about ten months. I did not belong to any "mess" in Washington at the time of my partnership with Mr. BIXBY or for years previously.

Q.—What compulsory influence did you bring to bear on Mr. GRINNELL to bring about the General Order business? A.—None whatever.

Q.—What political influence? A.—None, Sir.

Q.—Do I understand you to say that you do not directly or indirectly divide the profits with any one but your partner? A.—No one else is interested.

Q.—Has any one else got a promise? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Would you have any objection to allow an expert from this Committee to inspect your books and papers? A.—No, Sir; none in the world.

GARRET DAVIS, of Kentucky, yesterday, made one of those speeches which a man with no reputation to lose is often tempted, and is sometimes allowed, to make. If Mr. DAVIS supposed that any considerable number of people in the country would believe a charge because he made it, or distrust a man because he denounced him, it would act as a check on his licentious tongue. Being without this motive to moderation, he has no scruple about talking in the following wild fashion concerning the President. "I want the king of the political forest as well as the lesser beasts investigated; I want the Committee (of Retrenchment) to investigate the lion in his den, the Douglass in his halls." "There was a time when the Chief Executive of the United States was regarded as the fountain of honor; but now it is the fountain of dishonor, of abuse, and of corruption in our country." When it was found that, in spite of the ribaldry of the Kentucky Senator, the Republicans were ready to take up his proposition to investigate his violent charges, the other Democratic Senators suddenly became alarmed for the fate of the Amnesty bill, which Mr. DAVIS wished to lay aside, and persuaded him not to press his motion, and he withdrew it. Decent people, who regard such exhibitions with humiliation, must not forget that men of Mr. DAVIS' stamp have sought to defile the best Presidents the country has ever had—notably WASHINGTON and LINCOLN—with what success history shows.

Gen. Grant's Civil Service Reform.

Our readers all know the story of the wolf and the lamb, and remember how the wolf found fault with the lamb for disturbing the water of the brook, by the side of which they met, so that his wolfship could not drink; and that when it was pointed out to him that he stood up the stream, and that therefore the water came down from him to the lamb, he exclaimed, "Well, you reviled me this time last year." "That could not be," was the mild reply, "for then I was not born." "Then," cried the wolf, "if it was not you, it was your father," and falling upon him, tore him to pieces.

Now Gen. GRANT has very little of the lamb in his composition, but a great deal of the mastiff, and is not at all likely to be torn in pieces; nevertheless, the manner in which he has been treated in regard to the Civil Service reminds us of this fable, because of the very wolfish nature exhibited by his assailants. Whatever he may do, whichever way he may throw his influence, they are determined that he shall be in the wrong. They declared at first that he was opposed to Civil Service reform, because that would deprive him of the patronage that he was using for corrupt purposes, chiefly in order to secure his own renomination. He appoints a Commission on the Civil Service, approves its report, and orders its proposed system of examinations to be put in practice immediately, and the retort is a charge of hypocrisy—that this declaration of an intent to purify and to elevate the service is a mere throwing of dust into the people's eyes, that they may not see the revelations of dishonesty on the part of officers of the service which have been brought to light under his Administration. To this accusation it now proves that Gen. GRANT has a refutation as complete as that of the lamb who "was not born then." Gen. GRANT was not President when the large majority of these lately-discovered delinquents in the service were appointed. He is not responsible for them in any way, except as every official person is in a manner responsible for whatever evil is handed down to him from his predecessor. Yet more; it is to Gen. GRANT'S Administration that the credit is due of bringing these delinquencies to light. His predecessors, in leaving some dishonest men upon his hands, only gave him opportunities to show his integrity of purpose, and that abuses discovered by his officers should be reformed, and delinquents punished. To reproach him with the scandal of this, that, and the other embezzlement of the people's money, which his energetic Administration has discovered, and is following sharply up, is like holding a police officer responsible for the robbery or the assault of the burglar or the rowdy that he has arrested, and is taking before a magistrate.

That this is the real position of Gen. GRANT'S Administration in regard to the Civil Service, is shown by the array of facts set forth in the long letter from our Washington correspondent, which we published yesterday morning, and which was carefully prepared from official records. By this it appears that Gen. GRANT'S Administration has investigated and brought to light 192 cases of official misconduct in the Civil Service—but that, of this number, 153, or nearly five-sixths, were those of officers appointed by his predecessor. These delinquencies involve the considerable sum of $1,633,411 34—but of this more than five hundred thousand dollars has already been recovered, and of the remainder a large sum may be regarded as certain of recovery. But of this entire sum of $1,633,411 34, more than four-fifths, or $1,313,302 93, was misappropriated by men appointed before Gen. GRANT'S election. The responsibility for their misdoings was incurred before he was politically born. Of these dishonest officers the great mass—one hundred and thirty-seven out of the one hundred and ninety-two—were appointed by a man who had had his political training in the Democratic Party—ANDREW JOHNSON.

But it would not be fair to hold that party, or even JOHNSON, to the full responsibility of those appointments, or of the generally demoralized condition of the Civil Service when Gen. GRANT took the President's chair. For the war had so disturbed the country, and so unsettled all departments of the public service, that the most zealous disciplinarian could not hope to restore even the usual condition of things in the course of one Administration. The reduction of the army and navy, and in various civil departments, the stopping of all the great business enterprises that rested upon the war, turned loose a horde of disbanded men and camp-followers of various grades, great numbers of whom had political friends, and imagined they had political claims. By these, and by the members of Congress and of the lobby whom they could interest in their affairs, the President and the heads of Departments were besieged for places in the civil service—chiefly places in the Internal Revenue Department, the Post-office, and the Paymaster's office, for these are the most profitable. Appointments were made to meet these demands, and the result was what might have been expected from the placing in civil office of many men without education and without business habits, not a few of whom were political and military adventurers. Hence the condition of the Civil Service when it came into the hands of Gen. GRANT; hence the occasion which he found for the institution of those searching investigations which have been so well rewarded, and for which the country owes him so much. Hence it is that some—too many, and yet a small proportion—of his own appointees have proved to be unfit for their places, and have therefore been cashiered and prosecuted. For the disturbance produced by such a struggle as that through which we passed does not cease even when the surface of affairs seems quiet; and it was impossible in weeding the service to pluck up the tares without plucking up some of the wheat also. The reform which Gen. GRANT has begun, both through the stricter administration of the affairs of the Departments and through the Civil Service Commission, is one that in the very nature of things requires some time and careful treatment. But that Gen. GRANT and his Cabinet have been in earnest upon this subject, from the very beginning of his Administration, is now evident from the facts brought to light by investigation on all sides. And this will appear even yet more clearly day by day; for we have only begun to point out the significance of these revelations.

The Two Bills.

The meaning of last night's vote at Albany can only be understood by a reference to the radical difference between the bill introduced by Mr. HAWKINS, and the substitute for it proposed by Mr. TWOMBLY. It is entirely erroneous to assume that while the former aimed at doing a part only of a certain work, the latter provided for doing the whole. Mr. ALVORD ought to have seen that he was mistaken in asserting that Mr. TWOMBLY'S bill disposed of the whole subject of auditing and paying claims up to the time of the adoption of the new charter. The outstanding claims against the City of New-York amount to not less than fifteen millions of dollars, and it is difficult to see how the eight and a half millions provided by Mr. TWOMBLY'S bill can be made sufficient to dispose of "the whole subject." These claims are, moreover, of a very diverse character. Some are entirely and obviously fraudulent, some are only partially so, and nearly all, excepting only those clearly legalized by the appropriation of the last Legislature, are extremely complicated, both as regards their origin and their details.

Mr. HAWKINS' bill drew a sharp line of distinction between these two kinds of City liabilities. It simply instructed the Controller to pay those which ought to have been paid before the 31st December, and which would have been paid in the ordinary course of business by Mr. GREEN, had the Ring left him any money to meet them. The cry about the "extraordinary powers" conferred by the bill was utterly ridiculous, and could deceive nobody who paid the slightest attention to the subject. If there be anything "extraordinary" in either bill, it is certainly in that of Mr. TWOMBLY. It confers on the heads of Departments the power of auditing their own accounts and those of their predecessors, and it takes away from the Department of Finance—specially created for purposes of audit—the check which it ought to possess over extravagant or fraudulent claims. Mr. TWOMBLY'S bill creates a Board of Audit, consisting of four members, and the consent of each member is required to pass any claim whatever. It opens the way, therefore, to corrupt compromises and personal favoritism. It must be remembered that it does not stop where Mr. HAWKINS' bill did, at the limit of the legal appropriations of last year. It intrusts the whole mass of disputed and long-standing claims to a Board, three members of which were not appointed to audit general claims at all, and who, in order to do justice to the work confided to them, must neglect their proper functions. To go through the enormous mass of outstanding claims against the City will require long and frequent sessions, extending over weeks, if not over months; and even after the auditing has been effected, the Board will probably find itself a few millions short of the money required to pay the bills it has approved.

We have steadily maintained that the mass of indebtedness transmitted by the Tammany régime, should not have been left to be disposed of by any heads of Departments whatever. The amendments inserted into Mr. TWOMBLY'S bill serve to neutralize some of our objections against it as giving to a strictly provisional City Government the means of manufacturing support in order to make itself permanent. The enforced publicity of the sessions of the Board, the required interval of five days for consideration before any claim, save those for salaries, should be allowed, and the vital amendment of the Speaker that no claims should be paid, for which there was not a legal warrant or contract—all serve to make Mr. TWOMBLY'S bill, as passed by the Assembly, a less dangerous measure than it originally was. Even with these deductions, however, the bill is objectionable as sanctioning a return to a vicious precedent, and as sustaining the idea that the present Legislature cares less for the consistent reform of the government of New-York than for the manufacture of partisan capital out of a great popular and unpartisan victory. If Republican members permit themselves to be misled, in discussing the charter, by such partisan sophistries as Mr. ALVORD placed before them last night, they will not only prevent the local government from being reorganized at all, but they will force the country to the conclusion that the Republicans of the State are as incapable of taking a broad and liberal view of the necessities of the City, as was the majority of the corrupt Legislature of the last few years.

The Insurance Department Investigation.

The Insurance Committee of the Assembly, having in charge the investigation of alleged misconduct on the part of Mr. Superintendent MILLER, have already held one preliminary meeting, and are to begin their labors regularly today. Our readers will bear us witness that we have persistently called upon the honest and conscientious insurance companies of this City to look into the official conduct of MILLER. Now that the Committee, which we have every reason to believe is an honest and efficient one, is ready to examine all charges brought against the Superintendent, we reiterate our advice to all those who have suffered either from his rapacity or that of his underlings. We say to them earnestly and with all sincerity, "you have now an opportunity to protect yourselves from further encroachments; come forward like men and freely give to the Committee the information, which sooner or later it is sure to get hold of, for the investigation promises to be a most thorough and exhaustive one." We learn that Hon. WILLIAM BARNES has been retained by the Committee as counsel, and will conduct the examination of witnesses in person.

We earnestly hope that the companies will see their true interests, and respond to the call of the Committee for facts. We have done our duty in calling public attention to a gross evil, and we are now ready to leave Mr. MILLER in more powerful hands than ours. The air is thick with rumors affecting the standing of both life and fire companies, in so far as they are complicated with Mr. MILLER'S irregularities, and these rumors will soon take tangible form, no matter how secretly their tolls have been paid to this most rapacious of all Millers. The Presidents and Vice-Presidents, who now by their silence attempt to shield this State officer from exposure, may be safely left to the tender mercies of their policy-holders, who are quick to punish when they see cause to condemn.

Perhaps it is as well at this juncture of affairs to let the public into a little secret respecting Mr. MILLER'S administration. On his accession to the office, he found the insurance interests of this State on an almost impregnable basis. His predecessor had built up a reputation for New-York companies that carried them triumphantly into every State in the Union, and even across the Atlantic. Conscientiously believing in the wisdom and beneficence of the system he was set to guard, he labored to keep it above the low level of partisan politics, and succeeded to an extent that was hitherto considered impossible in a State Department. Under his administration, the full coffers of many of the companies began to tempt the cupidity of legislators of the Tammany stripe, and they looked with longing eyes at the assets which, year by year, attested the growing wealth and power of the insurance interest. But, with Mr. BARNES in the Department, whose vigilance never relaxed for an instant during the entire session of each Legislature, "insurance raids" were impossible, and the hungry Tammany wolves were kept at bay.

Finally, Gov. HOFFMAN came into power, and a change was at once demanded in what had grown to be a very important branch of the State Government. Mr. BARNES gave way to his successor—a pliant tool in the hands of Tammany. His advent was hailed with delight by all the hungry crew who had been kept at bay so long, and immediately on his accession to office, the notorious THOMAS C. FIELDS and DENNIS BURNS, of this City, opened the war upon the companies. The few companies that were able to count their assets by tens of millions were quick to see that this course could have but one end, and that was the gradual extinction of all the younger and weaker companies, and the consequent aggrandizement and centralization of power in themselves. Having plethoric treasuries, they were able to stand Mr. MILLER'S "examinations," and they at once constituted themselves his friends. They have sustained his illegal exactions upon other and weaker companies; they have called meetings and passed resolutions in his praise ad nauseam; they have "wined him and dined him," and serenaded and flattered him; and not content with foisting him on the public in all possible ways, they now "seethe the kid in the mother's milk," by compelling the companies who groan under his exactions not only to pay the bills, but sign a fulsome parchment testimonial to the effect that they are highly gratified and delighted with his conscientious performance of official duty.

Is this state of things to continue? or are the companies willing to save for themselves the small remnant of respect which the public still accords them, and make a stand now, when they have the choice offered them? We shall see.

The Truth About the "General Order" Mystery.

Through the evidence furnished to the Committee yesterday, it has become at length possible to give a correct and authentic statement of the facts bearing upon the General Order business. Future witnesses may, perhaps, throw additional light upon minor details; but the Committee and the public have now all the facts necessary to form a correct opinion upon this much-disputed subject. The "General Order" business, as we have more than once explained, comprises the care and storage of goods arriving at this port from other countries, which are not claimed by their owners at the vessel's side within a limited period after her arrival. Under the regulations of the Treasury Department, merchants are allowed forty-eight hours in which to pass their goods through the Custom-house, and during that time the vessels retain the custody of them without charge. It is frequently, however, for the interest of the steam-ship owners to unload their ships as soon as they arrive, and they therefore now all put a claim in their bills of lading allowing them so to do; but, as this privilege is one intended for their own benefit, and might work hardship upon the merchant, they agree that if they unload within forty-eight hours after arrival, they will refund to the merchant all the charges for cartage and storage incurred during that period on goods passed through the Custom-house before its expiration. The result is that, in practice, the steam-ships, as a rule, wait forty-eight hours before they unload, and during that time the merchants pay their duties, pass their goods, and take possession of them. In such cases, of course, there are no General Order charges to any one. But after the forty-eight hours, such goods as—from carelessness of the owners, defective invoices, or other causes—remain unclaimed, are sent to the General Order stores. In Winter, or when the steamers, from any cause, make an unusually long passage, it becomes necessary to discharge them immediately on their arrival, and then their entire cargo goes "under General Order," the Steam-ship Company paying the expense if they are claimed within forty-eight hours.

All goods which go under General Order are by law in the custody of the Collector, who is responsible for them, and may treat them as he chooses. At one time, the Collector stored them himself, and put the profits in his own pocket. When this was forbidden by law, it became the practice to farm out the privilege to other persons, and this has continued till the present day. For many years prior to Mr. GRINNELL'S administration, the Cunard and German steam-ship lines which land in Jersey had warehouses of their own, and were permitted by the Collector to store in them General Order goods which came by their lines respectively. This was a convenience to them, as enabling them to unload speedily, and a saving in some respects to the merchants, for there was no expense for cartage from the ship to the warehouse. When the merchant wanted his goods he had, it is true, (except in the case of large merchants, who make special arrangements) to pay somewhat more cartage than from a store in New-York, but the amount of the one long cartage was usually less than the two short ones—namely, one from the ship to the General Order warehouse in New-York, and one from these to the merchant's store. On the other hand, to the small importer, who had but a single package, it was usually cheaper to have the goods brought to a General Order warehouse in New-York, because they would come on a load with other goods, and the expense of cartage and ferriage was less.

The proprietors of steam-ship lines which landed in New-York complained, however, that by allowing the Cunard and German lines their own General Order warehouses, these special lines obtained an advantage over their rivals, for they could grant favors to merchants by allowing goods to remain without charge for more than forty-eight hours, so that in this way business was diverted from New-York, where the steam-ship lines could not have their own warehouses directly on the dock. Influenced apparently by these reasons, and by the belief that the opportunities for smuggling were too great, Mr. GRINNELL took from these lines the General Order business, and divided that business on the North River between his nephew MASON, and LEET & STOCKING. When MASON was found guilty of embezzlement, he gave it all to LEET & STOCKING, who have had it ever since, carrying it on in two warehouses, one situated at Leroy and Watts-street, and the other at No. 371 Washington-street.

As the result of the evidence before the Committee, we think it may be said that LEET & STOCKING have conducted the business more efficiently than it has ever been conducted before. Save in rare instances, there is no confusion and no great delay, and no loss has ever occurred in their stores. On the other hand, when several steamers arrive at once, and all their cargoes go under General Order, there is necessarily some delay, and at such times, certainly, trouble would be avoided if the General Order warehouses were more numerous. As a general thing, the owners of the six or eight steam-ship lines landing in New-York are content with the present system, though they would prefer it if each line could be allowed its own General Order warehouse, with a sufficient guarantee of permanency to make it an object for them to incur the heavy expense necessary to prepare such warehouses in this City; while they object strenuously to the restoration of the old system to the Cunard and German lines, if they are themselves excluded from a similar privilege. The Cunard and German lines, of course, are very desirous of regaining their old privilege, and have employed a lobby agent at Washington to aid them. As for the merchants, A. T. STEWART is very urgent in favor of restoring the privilege to the Jersey lines, and most of the larger merchants seem to concur with him, though Mr. CLAFLIN is, if we recollect right, the only one who has taken sufficient interest to appear before the Committee, the others contenting themselves with signing petitions. On the other hand, the smaller merchants favor the present system, under proper regulations as to charges. In other words, steam-ship owners and merchants both differ in opinion just as their interests differ, the preponderance among the merchants being certainly against the present system.

The Cunard Company say that their average charges were about $1 per package of the size of an ordinary dry-goods case. LEET & STOCKING claim that their average is $1 25, which, as they have to pay cartage at rates fixed by the Collector, is certainly no greater than that of the Cunard Company. We are bound to say, however, that it is obvious that LEET & STOCKING do not confine themselves to this rate, but at times charge as high as $2 or even more. Whether this is in accordance with the scale fixed by the Collector we do not know, but they assert that it is justified by the peculiar circumstances of the case. Our own opinion is that they at times exceed the authorized rate; that they have been more moderate in their charges within a year than previously; that their present charges do not greatly, if at all, exceed those of former owners; but that the authorized rate is, as a whole, too high. The rate of storage in General Order warehouses must always be somewhat higher than in ordinary bonded warehouses, for the former are bound to take all that comes, must consequently keep much vacant room, must keep the goods a year, and then may not find that they sell enough to reimburse their charge, and moreover, the running expenses of the warehouse are somewhat greater.

It may be worth while to add that it would seem that the steam-ship companies pay a very large proportion of the General Order charges incurred on the importations of our principal merchants. Thus Mr. STEWART was reimbursed, by one line, every dollar he had paid out.

With reference to charges, it appears that the average charge on all the goods of A. T. STEWART & Co. during 1871 varied from $1 24 to $1 65 per package, according to the expense of cartage from the different landing places, the general average being $1 44½ per package.

It would appear that the general idea as to the profits of the General Order business is greatly in error. The books of the Custom-house show that in 1871 there went to the General Order warehouses on the North River 159,266 packages and parcels of all kinds and sizes, about 16,000 of them being very small and paying but little storage. If we estimate 145,000 packages at an average of $1 50 each, we have a total gross receipt of $217,500. Out of this the expense of cartage, at forty cents a package, would be about $58,000, which leaves $159,000 as the ordinary gross receipts. The rent is $20,500, and the pay for Government store-keepers $7,200, which reduces the amount to $131,300, from which the expense of labor and the current minor expenses of the business are to be deducted, to show the profits.

The statement of Col. LEET substantially agrees with this, for he swears that in the period from June 18, 1870, to Dec. 31, 1871, the gross receipts of the business, including General Order and Bonded Warehouse receipts, was $203,936 58; that the expense of cartage was $51,395 99, and rent, labor, &c., was $94,311 35, making a total expense of $145,707 34, and leaving $58,229 24 as the profits of the General Order and Bonded Warehouse business for about nineteen months; and of this about $12,000 is estimated to belong to the Bonded Warehouse business, leaving the profits of the General Order business about $36,000, or $26,000 a year.

Such is the General Order business, its history, rates, and profits, as now conducted.

The Emigrant Swindler.

We have more than once called attention to the case of the notorious emigrant swindler "CHARLEY" MOORE, the controlling spirit of the rascally gang who for years have made a prey of the poor inexperienced strangers. After all the efforts that have been made to bring this scoundrel to punishment, he seems likely to escape. As those of our readers who have followed the case will remember, MOORE three times forfeited his bail, the forfeit in no case being enforced. He returned to the City at last and surrendered himself voluntarily to the Sheriff, only when KORNACK, the sole witness against him, had been released from the House of Detention and gone West. MOORE has since that time undergone the formality of a confinement. But, as we are authoritatively informed, the District-Attorney will consent to admit MOORE a fourth time to bail on Friday next, unless KORNACK shall by that time have returned. KORNACK, however, with a lively remembrance of that paradoxical justice, which lets free the rogue and locks up his victim, positively declines to come back, and the chances are that on Friday next this fellow MOORE will be turned loose to renew his villainous practices.

Now, there seems to be about this whole affair a degree of mystery which District-Attorney GARVIN may be able to dispel. He may tell us, perhaps, why the witness KORNACK was released, after so long a confinement, without achieving the object for which he was at first detained. He may tell us, too, why MOORE'S sureties have not been held responsible for his thrice-forfeited bail. He may also possibly inform us what measures, if any, have been taken to induce KORNACK'S return. And finally, if he is in an unusually communicative mood, he may divulge the amount and kind of "influence" brought to bear to secure MOORE'S exemption from the fate which has befallen his guilty accomplices.

In every interest of justice and humanity, it is important that this man should not go unpunished. His guilt is scarcely denied, and his escape will be extremely discreditable to our judicial officers. We tell District-Attorney GARVIN, plainly, that either his ability or his integrity will suffer from MOORE'S discharge. He is by far the worst of the gang which he led, if he did not organize, and the turn of this case certainly seems to accord him an amount of power and "influence" which must make him doubly dangerous. If KORNACK could be detained in the first instance, the machinery of justice ought to possess some means of enforcing his return. If not, the whole system of detaining witnesses, as illustrated in this case, is not only a great cruelty but the grossest mockery.

In any event we trust that Recorder HACKETT will not entertain any motion to admit the man to bail until it is absolutely certain that KORNACK can neither be persuaded or forced to appear. Failing that, there is, we are told, still another victim of MOORE'S rapacity now on his way across the ocean to testify against him. It will do no harm at least to await this man's arrival, whose name is given to us as HUTCHINSON, and who is doubtless well known to the District-Attorney. The time has gone by when influence could safely be used to protect, and if MOORE does escape we shall see that the responsibility is fixed where it belongs.

MINOR TOPICS.

The firm reserve of the Federal Government has again averted the threatened riot from New-Orleans. Mr. CARTER, on learning of the presence of Gen. EMORY'S troops ready to protect public property and to put down any armed conflict, concluded not to march to the State-house, and dismissed his adherents. Meanwhile the House of Representatives, after an acrimonious debate, has ordered its Special Committee to go to New-Orleans for the purpose of investigation, and hinted to it that the conduct of the Federal officers will be first in order.

Will the Senate never get to action on the merits of the Amnesty bill? It has been before that body now ever since the opening of the session. One unimportant amendment has been made to it. The remainder of the time has been spent on Mr. SUMNER'S amendment, embodying his Supplemental Civil Rights bill, a measure of doubtful relevancy, and of still more doubtful expediency as an amendment to this bill, and quite likely to kill it in the Senate or House, if tacked on to it.

Mr. FRANK BLAIR wants the United States to buy Cuba, and thinks now is a good time to try it. His reasons for buying the island are not novel; they are the same old reasons that have done faithful service in buncombe resolutions, and platforms, and stump speeches for the last forty years. But his grounds for supposing the present to be a good time to open negotiations certainly are novel. They are that Cuba is not necessary to Spain, and that its cession to the United States would be of great commercial benefit to the Spanish people. The Spanish Government, which is spending a great deal of money to hold Cuba, evidently does not agree with Mr. BLAIR, nor do the Spanish people. And, we may add, that we do not believe Spain is less ready to sell than the American people are to buy the ill-fated island.

Whatever people may think of Mr. BOUTWELL'S policy, they believe him both conscientious and scrupulously observant of the law. There will be little surprise, therefore, at the report by Mr. DAWES, from the Committee of Ways and Means, made to the House yesterday, exonerating the Secretary from all blame in connection with the negotiation of the five per cent. loan. Mr. DAWES, who is famous for his fondness for exposure and denunciation, expressed the decision of the Committee that Mr. BOUTWELL had "neither increased the bonded debt of the country, nor incurred expenditure contrary to law"—these being the offenses attributed to him.

The Brooklyn Union calls upon the directors of the Union Ferry Company for an explanation of the assault made by the pilot of the Columbia upon one of the passengers by the 1¼ A. M. trip from New-York on Friday last. The occurrence was fully reported in the TIMES of Saturday, and duly noticed by the Brooklyn papers of the same evening. As remarked by the Union, the fact of such an outrage having taken place without either inquiry or redress is disagreeably suggestive of the risks which are incurred by passengers on these boats in the middle of the night. We agree with our Brooklyn contemporary that there should be on every ferry-boat an officer of Police. From the moment a passenger enters the wicket at New-York, to the time he emerges from the one at Brooklyn, he is practically beyond the protection of the law. In fact, if he makes a complaint, he is, as proved by the experience of the unfortunate passenger of Friday, rather more likely to be clubbed by the officer outside of the Ferry-house than to have his wrongs redressed. The Directors of the Union Ferry Company must not be allowed to shirk the investigation which the public have a right to demand, into the outrage in question. A pilot who has no more control of himself than the one in charge of the Columbia on Friday morning, is not fit to be intrusted with the safety of hundreds of passengers.

We received yesterday the following additional contributions for the Childrens' Aid Society: "J. P.," $4; "Little Newy and Eva," $20; "A," $5.

The Committee of Seventy propose an act to accompany the City Charter, intended to secure greater responsibility on the part of the officials of the City and County. It makes all officers trustees, every tax-payer a cestui que trust; it gives to co-trustees, i. e., any City or County officer, and to any cestui que trust, i. e., any tax-payer, a title to all rights and remedies provided by law: 1, to prevent waste or injury to the public property; 2, to recover, in the name of the City or County, from any person or corporation, any property that may have been fraudulently misapplied. The bill provides for making the Attorney-General a party to such suit when necessary to secure a full determination of it. The plaintiff is required to give security for costs, and is liable to double cost if his suit fails. This bill adds one more to the measures recommended by the Committee to secure to tax-payers the right to call their official servants and trustees to account in the Courts.

The discomforts of Broadway on rainy days have recently been increased by a number of ash-men, who work with astonishing vigor between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock in the forenoon. They have totally disregarded the worn-out custom of lifting the barrels into their carts, and by the new system succeed in raising a cloud of dust almost thick enough to hide them from the gaze of pedestrians. The policemen seem to have made no attempt to stop this nuisance, and probably have no intention of doing so, unless "detailed" for the service by the Captain of the Twenty-fifth Precinct. Too much "discipline" is sometimes as bad as none at all.

There has been a great deal of letter-writing and newspaper discussion in connection with the San Francisco Railway Bridge project, but beyond this nothing of a practical nature has yet been done. From a bushel of chaff there may sometimes be procured a single grain of wheat, as from a thousand suggestions may come one that is worthy of attention. A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin, a civil engineer, proposes that the bridge across the bay be built in conjunction with a submerged stone weir, having, at convenient distances, water-wheels for mill-power, to be moved by the flow of the tides. In his opinion, the bridge, in a very few years, could in this way be made a paying structure. Manufacturers would certainly have an opportunity of trying what might or might not prove to be a cheaper motive-power than steam, but the difficulties in the way of the successful operation of such a plausible scheme seem almost too great to be easily overcome.

Persons who profess to have lost all faith in "poor humanity" may take a crumb of comfort from the experience of a Mr. HIRSCH, who is at present a resident of Louisville, Ky. About seventeen years ago, this gentleman befriended a young man named SONNENBERGER by advancing him, on his personal security, goods to the amount of $650. SONNENBERGER was to have gone on a Southern tour with a peddler's pack, but instead of so doing took ship for California. At the Isthmus of Panama, he met the brother of his benefactor, from whom he obtained the loan of a mule to transport his goods. Nothing further was heard of him up to a recent date, when a letter came to Mr. HIRSCH announcing that his former protégé, after a weary pilgrimage over the world, had at last found fortune in the diamond mines of South Africa, and was now desirous of paying the amount of his indebtedness, principal and interest. Cases of this kind, although of rare occurrence, have a tendency to show that a chain of untoward events has often prevented many an honest fellow from giving practical evidence of gratitude for acts of kindness rendered.

The benevolent ladies of Newark, N. J., have established a day nursery for children under the age of five years, with the view of benefiting mothers who cannot afford the luxury of "female help," and who may wish to spend a day in shopping or visiting friends, without being burdened with infants. The cost per week, including Sunday, is not to exceed seventy cents. Mrs. BOOTH's baby nursery in London is reported to have been a great success until, by mischance, one of the babies fell from its manger, and was so severely injured that death soon followed. Mothers are apt to lose confidence in an "institution" where the lives of their offspring are endangered, and unless the Newark ladies provide wire nettings, or cages, for the care of the little ones, their success is not likely to be of long duration.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

GERMAN OPERA AT THE STADT.

The performance of "Don Juan" at the Stadt Theatre, last evening, attracted an immense audience. It passed off smoothly, and its best-known incidents elicited much applause. Miss ANNA ELZER's debut as Zertina was quite satisfying. The little lady's singing is by no means finished, but it gives promise that her at present rather crude work may become worthy of a prima-donna of rank before many years have elapsed. Herr MULLER's personation of Don Juan was noticeable for similar reasons, his exceedingly fine voice compelling an admiration his lack of polish as a singer and inexperience as an actor would, with fewer natural advantages, prevent him from inspiring. Mme. FABBRI was an exceedingly dramatic Donna Anna. Miss ROSETTI suffered from a cold, and was not able to do her music absolute justice. Don Ottavio was represented by Herr HABELMANN, a conscientious and popular tenor. Herr KARL FORMES was a Leporello of unquestionable vivacity. Herr W. FORMES embodied Masetto. The opera will be repeated with the same distribution of parts, and, we hope, with equally gratifying results, on Wednesday.

Miscellaneous.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

At this establishment last evening the "European Hippotheatron Company" gave its introductory performance in presence of a very large audience. The company comprises such well known artists as SEBASTIAN, HENRY M. COOKE, CHARLES CONRAD, Miss LUCILLE WATSON, PHILO NATHANS and "Young Romeo," with SAM LONG and W. AYMAR as clowns. In addition to these performers, it includes a troupe of Arabs, who accomplish some extraordinary feats of skill and endurance. A change of programme takes place at each performance, and, with an eye to the future, a new spectacular piece is in preparation, founded on MOORE's romantic poem of "Lalla Rookh."

Committee of Seventy.

Hon. EDWARD SALOMON, Chairman of the Committee on Legislation, and Mr. SIMON STERNE, Secretary of the Committee of Seventy, and a member of the Committee on Legislation, left last evening for Albany, with the charter prepared for this City by the Committee. Several members accompanied Gov. SALOMON and Mr. STERNE.

Hon. JOHN WHEELER, Chairman of the Special Albany Committee, left yesterday morning for Albany, and in the evening Messrs. JOSEPH BLUMENTHAL and CHAS. WATROUS, of the same Committee, followed.

The Committee of Seventy have established a head-quarters in Albany, at No. 138 State-street.

Tweed, Hall and Connolly.

TWEED still remains in the City, and refuses to state whether he will go to Albany or not. CONNOLLY spends his time with his friends at Passaic, N. J., at Washington Heights, or at his own residence in Park-avenue. Sheriff BRENNAN says that CONNOLLY is continually on the move, but that his officers know of his whereabouts at all hours of the day. Mayor HALL was at his office in the City Hall for a few minutes yesterday.

The Bank Robbery at Trenton—A Busy Operation—Important Work in the Legislature.

From Our Own Correspondent.

TRENTON, Sunday, Jan. 21, 1879.

The robbery of the old Trenton Bank on Sunday evening has occasioned great excitement here. The affair was well planned, but miscarried owing to the merest chance. Seven persons in all appear to have been concerned in the burglary. Some days ago they rented a building two doors from the banking-house, under the pretense that they intended setting up a millinery establishment. They then arranged a system of signals, by which, on the night of the burglary, those of the number who had obtained access to the bank, were warned of the approach of the watchman, and the necessity of caution in their operations. After the watchmen were bound and gagged, the robbers pried open the safe, and went to work assorting the bonds and other valuables they found in the outer compartments. These were the property of special depositors, and included Government, railway, and other bonds. Those which were registered were thrown aside, only those being taken which could be disposed of without detection. The bonds were in boxes alphabetically arranged, and the burglars commenced at both ends, working toward the middle. While engaged in their work the approach of the second watch was signaled by the line communicating with the building occupied by their accomplices. As he entered the door he was seized, but a lady, who was fortunately passing, saw the struggle and gave the alarm, causing the burglars to fly with such spoil as they had been able to secure.

So far as is known up to this time, the bonds carried off amount to about $25,000. The loss may, however, prove to be greater when all the depositors have been neard from. It is said that some valuable plate and jewelry were also carried off.

As yet no trace of the robbers has been found. The bank is to be congratulated upon as narrow an escape from the utter loss of all its tangible assets as was ever, perhaps, experienced by any similar institution.

OTHER MATTERS.

A State Temperance Convention will be held here this week, for the purpose of giving expression to the feeling in favor of a "Local Option" law, under which each community may decide for itself the question of license. Hon. HENRY WILSON, of Massachusetts, and other distinguished gentlemen, are expected to be present, and the proceedings will, no doubt, have an important bearing on the temperance legislation of the session.

A bill is shortly to be introduced in the Legislature for the construction of another railroad between Sandy Hook and Long Branch. A bill to create a partisan Police Commission for Hoboken is before the House. Many of the Republican members indicate a disposition to oppose all propositions for the government of cities and towns by legislative commissions, and it is expected that this feeling will find very decided expression when the Jersey City Charter comes up for consideration.

LEGISLATIVE BILLS.

A bill has been introduced in the Senate creating an Insurance Department, charged with the control of insurance interests; also a bill to promote medical science in Hudson County, authorizing the delivery of bodies of persons dying unknown for surgical purposes. In the House bills were introduced creating a Bureau of Education in Jersey City. Also one repealing the Driggs Drainage Company for the Reclamation of Newark Meadows, one of last year's jobs. A bill was introduced in the House to tax the Erie Railroad property in Jersey City as other property is taxed. This will make a difference of $70,000 in favor of the State.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

How to Reduce Household Expenses.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Your editorials on economy in living are of great value to many of your readers, myself among the number. Some of the communications published, however, lack practicability. It is all well enough to advise people not to use tobacco or spirituous liquors; but you and I know, Mr. Editor, that some people will smoke and drink if they feel like it. What we want to know is how the housekeeper in moderate circumstances can reduce his expenses, without depriving himself or family of the comforts and luxuries that they have been accustomed to? Almost every housekeeper can give a hint on this subject; and, in the hope that others may be benefited by one I have adopted, (or rather the good lady who has charge of my household, i. e., my wife,) I make bold to trouble you with this communication.

In Pennsylvania there is an article in general use called "scrapple," or "scrappel," which is one of the best substitutes for meat that I know of. On coming to live in New-York I missed it very much, and, as a consequence, it cost us a large amount for mutton-chops, beef-steaks, &c., for breakfast, for which "scrapple" is excellent. My wife then brushed up her house-keeping and cookery lore, and resolved to make the article herself, which she does to perfection, and the result is, we have a delicious article of diet at a very small cost, which takes the place of meat for the morning meal, and which is, I believe, quite as nutricious, as I know it is more toothsome.

I don't wish to extend this communication, because I know the value of your space, but should any of your readers wish the recipe for making the article, I will be happy to get from my wife the exact proportion of each ingredient, and send you the result for publication. I remain, Mr. Editor, your obedient servant,

EPICURE.

Reply to "Germania."

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your issue of 22d inst. appears an article by "Germania," who seems a person apparently without a tie of affection, or anything to cause him to live as a rational being, and who would wish, in the selfishness of his own solitary existence, to place himself before the public as an example for young men. Economy should be observed at all times, but we are all controlled by circumstances, connections, &c., in a greater or less degree, (and I am really sorry for "Germania" as his situation has seemingly made him morbid.) The statement that he does without certain dissipations is foolish and in bad taste, as he almost conveys the wish, had he the means; and conclusively, in weighing the value of his article, especially where he speaks disparagingly of the luxury of a wife, I would refer him to another column of your valuable journal, where he can read your extract from the sermon of Rev. Dr. DIX, from which he will learn that there is something to live for beside the foolish idea of forcing the community to think that his individual mode of living is either proper, Christianlike, or worthy to be set before the public as an example in any way.

UNITED GERMANY.

NEW-YORK, Monday, Jan. 22, 1879.

To Germania.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Oh, Germania, you are to be pitied, and from the bottom of my heart I pity you and all mysogymists. My income, to be sure, is $300 a year more than yours, but then I have a wife, a dear and loving companion, and a bright-eyed little boy. I, too, have "someting over" for worthy charity, for good musical treats or dramas, and my banker tells me of a "margin in my favor." When you rank a wife among the "luxuries" of smoking, drinking, card-playing, billiards and horse-racing, you do not "speak advisedly." I have a snug, cozy house where, after the labors of the day are over, I can repose in the society of a wife, and often dear friends also, while you "must go to your tent" in despair. Get married, oh, Germania, and be a man. JOSH.

NEW-YORK CITY, Monday, Jan. 22, 1879.

A Policeman Beaten by Ruffians.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Patrolman AUGUSTUS WILLIARD, of the Sixteenth Precinct, ordered several disorderly men to move on from the corner of Sixteenth-street and Ninth-avenue. They refusing to obey, he attempted to arrest them, when they turned upon him, and, knocking him down, beat and kicked him in a most brutal manner about the head and body, inflicting very serious injuries. One of them snatched the officer's club from him, and struck him on the head with it with such fury as to break the weapon. Having utterly disabled the patrolman, they ran away and all escaped. WILLIARD was carried to his Station-house, where his wounds were dressed, and after which he was taken home.

THE NEW LOAN.

Report of the Committee on Ways and Means on the Negotiation of the Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Committee of Ways and Means, to whom was referred the resolution of Representative COX on Dec. 4, alleging that the Secretary of the Treasury, in placing the newly-authorized five per cent. bonds upon the market, had violated the law—say they considered this resolution in the same manner as if it had been adopted by the House, instead of as a simple reference to them for consideration. Upon their invitation, the Secretary of the Treasury and the mover of the resolution were both heard by the Committee in reference to it. The statement of the Secretary accompanied the report, as also that of Mr. JAY COOKE in reference to the subject.

The allegations of the resolution are: First, that this negotiation increased the bonded debt of the United States in defiance of law; Second, that the Secretary has expended more than one-half of one per cent. limited by law in the expenses of funding said loan. The first of these allegations is founded upon the following clause of the first section of the act authorizing the loan, viz.:

"But nothing in this act or in any other law now in force shall be construed to authorize any increase whatever of the bonded debt of the United States."

The Committee are of opinion that this provision of the act has not been violated by any of the transactions recited above, or which have come to their knowledge. The Committee, after quoting the fourth section of the same law, say the clause which it is alleged has been violated must be construed in connection with that section, as well as with all other parts of the law, and the manifest object for which it was enacted. By the fourth section is disclosed the whole purpose of authorizing the issue of these bonds, and they can be issued for no other, nor can their proceeds be used for any other purpose than that specified in this section. All parts of this law must be construed together, and, if possible, be reconciled with each other and with the express design of the act, so that it shall take effect itself. By this section it appears that the Secretary can negotiate the bonds authorized by this act for the sole purpose of redeeming the outstanding indebtedness of the United States, known as five-twenty bonds, and it is expressly provided in this fourth section that he may lawfully apply to such purpose of redemption such moneys in the Treasury of the United States as may be derived from the sale of any of the bonds the issue of which is provided for in this act. It is obvious that in order to make this application he must first negotiate the new bonds. He cannot take up the old bonds with the proceeds of the new ones unless he first sells the new bonds. He cannot first sell the bonds without, in the process and while the act of obtaining and applying the proceeds is going on, increasing the public debt to the amount of the bond he first sells in order to obtain the proceeds with which to take up the old bond. The Committee know no process by which the provision of the law can be carried out without involving such a temporary increase of the public securities, and, therefore, are of opinion that the clause of law, which it is alleged the Secretary has in so doing violated, must be so construed as to permit of the carrying out the other requirements of the statute in this regard. No one can doubt that this salutary provision of the law, which it is alleged the secretary has violated, was intended to take away from him the power of appropriating the proceeds of any of the bonds authorized by this statute to any other purpose than that of refunding the public debt, so that when the transaction was completed the public could be assured that the debt of the nation had not thereby been increased. It finds no doubt of limiting the authority of the Secretary in this regard, and strengthening the public credit, and was an assurance to the world that in offering this new bond we were not borrowers, but that, on the other hand, our policy and prosperity had so strengthened our credit that we were, so soon after the creation of our great indebtedness, enabled to enter upon the process of refunding, without increasing the same, at a much less rate of interest.

In the opinion of the Committee this clause of the statute had no other scope and effect, and was not intended to embarrass or cripple the efforts of the Secretary to carry out other provisions of the law, which simply provided that we should first negotiate the new loan, and after having done that should, with the proceeds redeem a corresponding amount of the outstanding indebtedness of the United States.

If the Secretary were confined by law to the redemption of the outstanding bonds by the money in the Treasury, and could only use the new bonds to replenish the Treasury and keep it in funds, for that purpose as well as for current expenses, still the construction of the clause, which it is alleged the Secretary has violated, must necessarily be the same as that put upon it in the negotiation of this loan, and which, in the opinion of the Committee, is the correct one. To the precise amount the public debt is increased by the sale of a new bond it is diminished by the depositary becoming a debtor to the Government, and the one balances the other, leaving the aggregate the same as before the transaction was commenced; but the Committee are of opinion that no such interpretation is necessary for the justification of the Secretary.

The second allegation of the resolution is that the Secretary has exceeded the one-half of one per cent. allowed by the Funding act for all expenses in placing the loan. The statement of the terms upon which this loan has been thus far negotiated, made by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Committee, is the same as that submitted in his annual report. From that statement it appears that, after deducting from the aggregate sum which one half per cent. of the loan would amount to, all the expenses thus far attending its negotiation, such as advertising, preparing and printing the bonds, and that portion of it which had been paid to the national banks, and other agencies, for such negotiation of it as they had been able to make, the balance of said one half per cent. and no more, was by the arrangement with JAY COOKE & Co., paid to those parties who took the balance of the loan. If this statement is correct, and the Committee see no reason to doubt it, then it is apparent that the limitation of one-half per cent. has not been exceeded thus far in the negotiation of the loan authorized by this act, but a part of the agreement by which the balance of the loan was taken was in substance this: That the banks which took this loan for themselves, and those for whom they negotiated it, were to be designated as depositaries of the public money, and the proceeds of the bonds this taken remain on deposit with said banks until used by the Secretary for the redemption of an equal amount of five-twenty bonds, for which they would not be required in ninety days.

The Committee are of opinion that the advantage thus derived by the banks for the use of the money during the time which must necessarily elapse between the conversion of the new bond into coin and the redemption of the old bond with that coin, can, in no fair interpretation of the funding account, be counted as a part of the expense which was limited by that act to one-half per cent. of the loan. It is given to such banks by the law that makes them depositaries, and not by the contract of the Secretary.

If the Secretary had received into the Treasury and locked up in its vaults a large amount of coin derived from the sale of these bond, it would have resulted in disastrous consequences to the commercial world. Nothing could have accrued to the Treasury of the United States by the use of the money in the meantime, for the law prohibited its use by the Secretary for any other purposes, while it authorized him to leave it on deposit with these banks upon the conditions stated. If such deposit was of any advantage to the bank, it resulted from the provisions of the law and cannot be said to be illegal. The National Banking law authorized him to make such regulations governing the deposits as he should deem fit, and he made the regulations which have been stated and for the reasons given. The Committee say at the conclusion of their report, of which the above is a mere synopsis: In the opinion of the Committee, he was not only authorized so to do by law, but these deposits were necessary, if he would carry out the provisions of the Funding act in a manner that would least disturb the money market and the business of the country. In thus using the banks, he has followed the precedent of his predecessors, who have made use of them in effecting all of the loans authorized by the Government since their establishment, and it is worthy of note that this is the first loan ever effected by the United States at a less cost than one per cent. The Committee have confined themselves to a consideration of the authority in law for the acts of the Secretary thus far in effecting the loan. The wisdom of these measures may safely be left to the public judgment upon the result. They, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That, in the opinion of this House, the Secretary of the Treasury, in negotiating the loan authorized by the act of July 14, 1870, has neither increased the bonded debt, nor incurred an expenditure contrary to law.

The Murderer Botts.

BOTTS, in proof of his marriage with Mrs. WILSON, now produces seven affidavits from his children, mother, and other relatives and friends, that Mrs. WILSON had been introduced to them as his wife, and that they had been under the belief that she was such. BOTTS is not, and does not pretend to be, resigned to the carrying out of the sentence, and will resist to the last moment. He still clings to the hope that he may be respited. His counsel was with him for some time on Sunday, but it is not known whether any new steps are proposed by them.

WASHINGTON.

Important Business in the House—The Affairs of the District Government—A Row Over the New-Orleans Trouble.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Amnesty got before the Senate at 2 o'clock today, and the two hours and a half of debate that followed did not inspire anybody to prophesy an early termination to the subject. Mr. SAWYER read a speech to show why he should vote against Mr. SUMNER's proposition to amend the Civil Rights bill, though he favored the passage of the latter as a separate measure. There was an exciting struggle over a motion made by Mr. ROBERTSON to postpone the bill for the purpose of taking up the House Amnesty bill passed a few days ago. The object of this motion was to get rid of Mr. SUMNER's amendment, as well as one other which was adopted before the holiday recess. It would, indeed, place the whole subject back where it was in the Senate when the bill now under discussion was first taken up at the beginning of the session. It would be a sort of test question upon Mr. SUMNER's bill, without a direct vote upon it. The motion was not decided today, and it is not certain that it will be to-morrow. If the bill is postponed, and the new bill taken up, it is difficult to see what would be gained by the friends of amnesty, because Mr. SUMNER could move his amendment again, and the same debate would have to be gone over again. There is a good deal of disquiet manifested that the debate should continue so long, after it is certain every Senator has made up his mind how he will vote, and there is talk of a night session, to sit it out, and decide the question and have it out of the way. If the new bill should take the place of the one now before the Senate, it would lead to a debate by those opposing amnesty, to stave off another direct vote till some other changes were possible.

SENECA STONE.

GARRETT DAVIS tried to make his Seneca stone speech today, and because his request to have the other business of the Senate set aside for him to read an attack on the President met with some opposition, he got in a passion. He was, however, restored to his normal condition by the united efforts of the two Senators from Ohio, and on appeal from Mr. THURMAN he concluded to withdraw his speech and make it at some other time. He said he was ready and wanted to make his speech now. He did not care what became of his resolution after he had made his speech. All he wanted was to lead the Senate into a violent debate, and he expected his resolution would do it. Such were some of the candid confessions which he so far forgot his part as to make. When his resolution gets before the Senate it will bring up the question, among others, of the right of the Senate to make investigations looking toward impeachment of the President.

NOMINATION WITHDRAWN.

The President today withdrew the name of Ex-Senator WILLARD WARNER, who was some time since nominated for the post of Collector of Customs at Mobile. This is understood as a concession for peace in the party in that State, though whether it will result in securing it remains to be seen. Bargains with such men as have led the opposition to Mr. WARNER usually fail.

BUSINESS IN THE HOUSE.

Gen. BUTLER got in his Indemnity bill in the House today, as predicted in these dispatches. There are several anti-Tariff bills, and bills providing for general amnesty, although there is no chance that the House will move in that matter again this session. Mr. MCCLELLAND, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill for an immediate resumption of specie payments, with an utter disregard of consequences as its leading feature. A new Constitutional amendment was presented providing that members of both Houses of Congress shall be ineligible to the Presidency and Vice-Presidency. Gen. MORGAN, of Ohio, is persistent with his pet idea for rendering naturalized citizens eligible under the Constitution for the Presidency. He brought it forward today for the third time, and on a motion to suspend the rules, secured for it, to the astonishment of everybody, a majority vote for it, but a good deal smaller one than was necessary to suspend the rules. The Democrats very generally voted for it. A good many Republicans also gave it their vote, accepting congratulations as they did so in a way that showed they looked upon it as a good joke. After the call of the States for bills, Mr. HALE's bill, which has been hanging fire since last Monday was sent to the Committee on Ways and Means by a large vote. The bill is for the relief of our shipping interests, and removes the imposts upon materials used in the construction of vessels, including, of course, iron. It is by no means certain that the bill will not be reported back and pass the House in essentially its present shape, as the reference is considered favorable.

MR. VANCE RETIRES.

Mr. THURMAN announced today, during the debate upon the Amnesty bill, that VANCE, of North Carolina, had resigned his claim to a seat in the Senate, and had given up the contest entirely. As an amendment to the Amnesty bill was passed the other day with the sole object of keeping him from any benefits that the passage of the bill might have otherwise conferred upon his contest, Mr. THURMAN seemed to think that no reason remained for not passing the last House bill without amendment. The resignation of VANCE will open up a new set of questions about the North Carolina Senatorship. Gen. ABBOTT will claim it; and it is not certain but the Governor and the Legislature of the State will each send another, since each claims the legal right to fill the vacancy.

THE NEW DISTRICT GOVERNMENT.

As was fully expected by all who read the items charged by the newspapers here for advertising for the new District Government, on Saturday, which passed in the Deficiency Appropriation bill of the District Legislature, on that day, the matter came up in the House today on the presentation of a petition by Mr. FARNSWORTH, praying for an investigation into the affairs of the District Government. There was quite an ebullition of virtue in consequence, particularly on the Democratic side, who in their utter poverty of campaign ammunition are quick to turn everything to partisan account. The motion to investigate was warmly supported by Mr. DAWES, who announced it as his notion that the Republicans could afford to probe their own sores as well as those of the other side. After some sharp discussion in which the local Government was variously indicted, the petition was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia as the proper body to undertake the investigation. This is in the right direction. The Governor and Board of Public Works profess to be entirely ready to meet it, so far as they are concerned, and they will probably be able to show that a great deal of clamor that has been raised has proceeded from unworthy motives. And if they have not conducted their work so as to be able to meet the proposed investigation then they ought to be shown up. The body most likely to be hurt in the proposed investigation is the Lower House of the District Legislature, just adjourned, and the only body which is elected by universal franchise, as it now exists, in the District of Columbia. That some of its members are corrupt is fully believed; and it will doubtless be proven on the investigation, that the nearer the power gets to the people in this District the more corrupt it becomes, a fact every local Government here for six years past has proven.

THE APPROPRIATION BILLS.

The House went into Committee of the Whole today, for the first time this session, on the appropriation bills in charge of Mr. GARFIELD. He first reported the bill appropriating $50,000 for the expenses attending the reception of the coming Japanese Embassy. A disposition was manifested by the Democrats to oppose it, McKINNEY, of Ohio, insisting upon the curious objection that, if the Japanese were gentlemen, they would insist upon themselves paying the expenses attending their reception by the United States. After Gen. BANKS had explained the universal custom of other nations in similar cases, the appropriation was made, with but few dissenting votes. The Foreign Affairs and Appropriations Committees were unanimous in their indorsement of this bill.

THE NEW-ORLEANS TROUBLES.

A bill providing for the payment of the expenses of the Committee to investigate the New-Orleans troubles caused quite a discussion in the House. Mr. FARNSWORTH did not want the Committee to go to New-Orleans, and placed himself in what shortly became an unpleasant predicament by insisting that there was nothing for it to do there, and that Congress could do nothing with its report. Mr. SHELDON agreed with FARNSWORTH, and thought the opposing factions would get along better if they were let alone. Mr. GARFIELD replied that the conduct of the United States officials in connection with this matter, did need investigation, even if the State officers were immaculate. Mr. BECK, who had voted against the appointment of the Investigating Committee, made an excited speech, which indicated that he had changed his mind. Mr. SYPHER, another Louisiana representative, drew a highly-colored picture of the seat of war in his home, and thought that a committee could find something to do there. Mr. DAWES followed in one of his characteristic speeches, demanding that the evil-doers be dragged into the light, no matter whose party friends they were, and there is no doubt but that he expressed the sentiments of a majority of the Republicans. In the course of his remarks he defended the President from the charge that he was opposed to the investigation. Mr. VOORHEES delivered a speech which he has been trying for some days to find an opportunity for, and made a partisan attack on the Reconstruction laws, to which Mr. SHELLABARGER replied. This called Mr. BECK to his feet again, and he proceeded to exaggerate the figures of the Southern debts in a reckless way, which called several members to their feet, but to whom he refused, in the most discourteous terms to listen. At this point the excitement in the House was increased by the reading of a telegram from New-Orleans, sent to Mr. KERR, announcing that the State-house was in possession of a mob. The debate was continued at some length, and with a great deal of excitement upon the questions brought forward by the speech of Mr. VOORHEES, entirely of a party character. The expenses of investigation were provided for.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

The important subjects brought before the Senate this morning were the Postal Telegraph bill, reported back from the Post-office Committee by Mr. RAMSEY, which was placed on the calendar, and the bill setting aside the Yellowstone Valley as a public park, reported back from the Committee on Public lands. On this bill Mr. POMEROY failed to get immediate action, and he withdrew the report to introduce it at another time. This bill proposes to preserve from spoliation, in the same way as was done in the the case of the Yosemite, this valley of the Geysers—explored by Prof. HAYDEN last Summer. The whole of the tract to be set apart is higher than the top of Mount Washington, and is valueless for agricultural or mining purposes.

MR. EDMUNDS DISAPPOINTED.

Mr. EDMUNDS was compelled to give up his civil service speech today for other duties outside the Senate Chamber. He will, therefore, have to wait till amnesty is decided, unless the courtesy of the Senate is extended specially to him, in view of the impossibility of his keeping the floor today.

Dismembered Poland.

A number of Polish exiles, resident in this City, of whom there are about 2,000, last evening celebrated the anniversary of the Polish revolution of 1863. Brief addresses were delivered by the Chairman, Mr. ALFSUTZ, Mr. LEMDEJEUSKI, and others, reviewing the repeated struggles of the Poles to regain national independence, and reiterating the national sentiment that the cause of Poland is not yet lost.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The poet WHITTIER, last week, wrote to Mr. SUMNER: "Amnesty for rebels and a guarantee of safety for the freedmen should go together."

The bill to admit in the Courts of Kentucky the testimony of all parties, without regard to race, color or previous condition, was passed by the Senate of that State on the 19th inst., by a vote of yeas 20, nays 16.

The Omaha Tribune says that there is no truth in the report, telegraphed East, that Gov. JAMES, of Nebraska, is to be impeached. It says that all the insinuations against him are prompted by the disappointment of schemers whom his fidelity has foiled.

A Richmond letter says that the Virginia Senate proposes to appropriate a small sum of money to the erection of marble slabs over the graves of JOHN RANDOLPH, of Roanoke, and Judge EDMUND PENDLETON, of Caroline, whose resting-places beneath the sacred soil are now without the commonest mark.

The Columbus Statesman publishes a communication from a prominent Democrat of Central Ohio, setting forth a patent new plan "to beat GRANT," the same being the nomination of a National Reform People's ticket, to consist of Hon. WM. S. GROESBECK, of Ohio, for President, and Gov. B. GRATZ BROWN, of Missouri, for Vice-President.

Hon. BEN. H. HILL has been making another long speech in Georgia. He reviewed his political course during the past sixteen years; said that during all that time he had been zealously striving to "arrest the progress of revolution;" and advised that now they should all blot out the spirit of intolerance and recognize and obey the Constitution as amended, and go to work and get control of their own affairs.

The Commissioners of West Virginia report that they find their State liable for but $953,360 of the old debt of Virginia, taking the ground that the benefits conferred, and not territory and population, should be the basis of an adjustment. The debt of Virginia Jan. 1, 1861, was $31,778,867, and all but $2,656,330 of the amount was expended within the present State of Virginia for canals, railroads, turnpikes, plank-roads and bridges.

Col. ALEXANDER K. MCCLURE, of Philadelphia, has accepted a "Republican reform" nomination for the Senate of Pennsylvania, against Hon. HENRY W. GRAY, the regular Republican candidate. The Democrats will probably support him. The election is to fill a vacancy caused by death in the Fourth District, which gave a Republican majority of 7,458 in October. In his letter, Col. MCCLURE pledges himself to support the principles, the policy and the organization of the Republican Party, and announces that he could accept no candidacy that would endanger Republican success in the Senate, or in the State or nation.

Gov. CALDWELL, of North Carolina, has published an address to the colored people of his State, and it has been indorsed by the Republican members of the Legislature, advising them not to yield to the enticement of agents who are endeavoring to persuade them to emigrate to other States, and saying to them: "I feel satisfied that there is no better place under the sun than North Carolina for the honest, industrious colored man and woman. Thousands of acres of as fertile land as can be found anywhere are embraced within our limits. Good health abounds here to as great a extent as in any State of the Union. The Ku-klux klans having been suppressed, good order and quietude will soon, if it does not now, reign supreme in our midst. Labor is as much needed here as anywhere else."

Senator McCreery's Views on Impromptu Speaking.

In accordance with the usual custom in Kentucky Senator elect MCCREERY gave a dinner to the members of the Legislature of that State and others on the evening of the 18th inst. And in responding to a toast in his honor he said that he considered an after-dinner speech the greatest humbug of modern times. The fashion was an innovation upon the good, old-time customs of the fathers. There had been, he said, a great deal of good, old, hard sense in the thousands of years behind us, but none of it had ever sanctioned after-dinner speeches. They were about as useless and empty as the empty decanter from which they drew their inspiration. He said said that inspiration was all bosh; hard work does it all; and if there is any young man here to-night who has set himself down to wait, or any old man who has been waiting for the last forty years, for this thing of inspiration to come skipping along and make him great, I say to him now, get up and go to work, and work hard and long and steady, and, by the time you are ready to step into your grave, people will begin to say that you are a genius, and commence to think that you are one of those lucky fellows who have been blessed by that blessed thing called inspiration. There's where your inspiration comes in. That's the nearest approach to inspiration that I know of, and, if you want it, you can go home to-night, get sober, and commence at daylight in the morning upon a sixty years' work for it.

Election of Yale Class Orator and Poet.

Saturday afternoon E. S. LINES, of Naugatuck, was elected class orator, by the Senior Class in Yale College, and D. N. BEACH, of South Orange, N. J., poet. Messrs. CRAGIN, Curtis, J. K. DUDOIS, C. P. SMITH and WILCOX, were elected Presentation-day Committee, and Messrs. Campbell, Howard and F. T. Dubois Class-cup Committee. Messrs. Baldwin, Boomer, Bradley, Delavan, Kirkham, Parsons and Robertson were elected a committee to make arrangements for the promenade concert next Summer.

Jersey City Police.

Capt. MCHORNEY and Sergt. ROBBINS, at the Central Office at Jersey City, were yesterday arrested on charges of false imprisonment, and held in bail to appear before the Grand Jury. The charges are made not for the purpose of punishing the officers, who acted under orders, but to decide the rights of citizens and the duties of policemen. THOMAS GIBSON, on Saturday night, was arrested on a charge of kidnapping, and his friends went before Civil Justice DAVIS, signed a bail-bond for $500, and the Justice gave a release. This discharge was taken to the Station-house, but the officers refused to acknowledge it, and held the prisoner. It is proposed to test the right of the Police to hold a man over night without taking him before a Justice, and also, as to whether other Justices cannot act in cases coming under the Police as well as Police Justices.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Proceedings of the Boards of Aldermen and Assistant Aldermen—The Mayor's Message—A Committee to Investigate the City and County Accounts.

Yesterday the two Boards of Aldermen were in session and transacted considerable business. The following is a report of the proceedings:

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

This Board met at 3 o'clock P. M. yesterday, President COCHRANE in the Chair. He said he would announce the Standing Committees of the Board today by handing a list of them to the Clerk.

A petition of JOHN F. TROW for a share of the public printing was received and referred.

The following communication was received from the Mayor, which was referred to President COCHRANE, Mr. CONNER, Mr. FALCONER, Mr. MARTIN and Mr. VAN SCHAICK, to proceed to Albany to carry out the recommendations of the message, but that before they go they report to the Board their views upon the subject:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Jan. 22, 1872.

To the Common Council:

The charter of this City will undoubtedly be amended by the Legislature. That body is now controlled by a large and harmonious majority of members of one political faith. There is every reason to be assured that this majority will pass amendments without the necessity of an act being hampered by compromises or weakened in system by concessions such as necessarily had to be made in 1870-71, for the purpose of securing any amendments at all. The Mayor, therefore, respectfully recommends to you that a select committee from each Board be duly appointed to draft and propose to the Legislature any desired amendments to the Charter. A similar course was adopted in 1870, when the first legislative interference with the ancient chartered rights of the City occurred. Several times subsequently the Common Council memorialized the Legislature upon the subject of Charter Amendments. The Mayor sends a copy of the first proceeding taken by the Common Council, and in 1830, as exhibiting the precedent. It is manifestly proper that a Common Council chosen under the circumstances of the last election, should receive from the Legislature a more earnest hearing than that honorable body will accord to merely voluntary associations, which, however patriotic in motive and skillful to suggest municipal measures, do not take their origin directly from the people.

Without being invidious, it may be also added that among the members of the Common Council are four who have been Presidents of one of the Boards of Aldermen in prior years; another member who has been Chairman of Commerce in Congress, a Surveyor of the Port and Attorney-General of the State; one who has been a member of the Department of Education; another attached to the Department of Charities and Correction; another was formerly Street Commissioner; another has been for three years identified with measures of Public Health; another was for many years honorably and variously connected with the Department of Police; another has been for fifteen years, not only a City editor, but an Albany correspondent, and his memory is really encyclopædiac on municipal affairs; and the other Aldermen and Assistants who, although never having held public trusts, are distinguished as bankers, manufacturers and lawyers; and, indeed, two of them have, as private citizens, conspicuously added to the commercial and material development of the City. It is, therefore, additionally appropriate from individual points of view, and because of the practical experience thus available, that your body should act as recommended.

A. OAKEY HALL, Mayor.

With the message the Mayor sent extracts from the Minutes of the Common Council of Jan. 25, 1830, submitting amendments to the City charter.

Alderman VAN SCHAICK offered the following preamble and resolution, which were adopted:

Whereas, The imperfect investigations already made have convinced the public that corruption has permeated almost every department of the City and County of New-York, and

Whereas, the examination heretofore made by the Committee appointed for that purpose has been necessarily imperfect on account of the refusal of the Common Council to grant to such Committee the power to send for persons and papers; and

Whereas, The present members of the Board were elected as Reformers upon the pledge that they should exert their utmost exertions to thoroughly reform whatever abuses have heretofore existed in the affairs of the City and County of New-York; and

Whereas, Such investigation is earnestly demanded by the Democratic Party of said City and County, as well as by the vast majority of citizens irrespective of party, it is therefore

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to investigate the transactions of the Government of the said City and County, and to report to this Board whether frauds or irregularities have been committed, and whatever abuses still exist, and to examine and report what measures can be taken to punish those persons or officials who may be found to have been guilty of corruption or improper conduct, with the view to prevent the recurrence of such conduct in the future; and that such committee have full power to send for persons and papers and to employ counsel, and take such legal advice in the matter as may be necessary.

Alderman WILDER offered the following resolutions, which were tabled:

Resolved, That the current, entire expenses of carrying on the City Government during the present year, including the deficiency for 1871, should be raised by taxes to be levied for the year 1872, and that the rate of taxation should be so far advanced as to assure the collection of an amount sufficient for that purpose.

Resolved, That the deficiency for 1871 should be recognized and provided for only to the extent of all claims for services actually performed, and materials and supplies furnished and used in the public service, and that the Heads of Departments having incurred liabilities exceeding the sums set apart for them by the Board of Apportionment, should be held responsible for the consequences of their illegal acts.

Resolved, That we accordingly and respectfully ask of the Legislature now in session not to legalize past violations of the law, but to enforce these principles.

Mr. MEHRBACK offered the following preamble and resolution, which were adopted:

Whereas, It was provided under the law of the State of New-York, passed April 28, 1870, that the Controller of the City of New-York should issue to greater amount of accumulated debt bonds of the Corporation of the City of New-York than necessary for the payment of whatever claims may have been adjusted by the said Controller previous to the passage of said act, except liabilities for printing, advertising, and for the Street and Croton Departments; therefore,

Resolved, That the Controller of the City of New-York be and hereby is requested to communicate to this Board the amount of bonds issued by the then Controller under said law, with a list of claims adjusted by him, the name of each claimant and the amount of each and every claim, and to whom assigned, the name of the assignee and person preceding each claim, together with the date of the adjustment and payment of each claim.

After the transaction of some routine business, the Board adjourned.

ASSISTANT ALDERMEN.

This Board met at 3 o'clock P. M. yesterday, President HALL in the chair. All the members were present. The Journeymen Co-operative Printers' Association sent in a communication asking for the proper share of the public printing, which was referred to the Committee on Printing. The Mayor sent in a communication similar to that sent to the other Board, which was ordered to be inserted in the minutes, and made the special order for the next meeting. A resolution was referred requesting the Corporation Counsel to inform the Board how many clerks and attachés it was entitled to by law, and what power they possess in relation to the salaries of such persons

The Board adopted resolutions rescinding resolutions heretofore passed, authorizing the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company to lower their tracks and lay additional tracks north of Forty-second-street. A resolution was adopted directing the Committee on Railroads to examine into the regulations and practices respecting the running of freight-cars over the Harlem Railroad, below Forty-second-street, and to report whether any further legislation is necessary. A resolution was adopted requesting the Controller to inform the Board what newspapers have been designated Corporation papers, and by what authority the Sunday Democrat obtained a judgment against the City for $26,000 for advertising.

The Special Committee appointed relative to the salaries of the employes in the Clerk's office, reported that there are twenty-one clerks in the office, drawing, in the opinion of the Committee, large and excessive salaries and performing little or no service therefor; the Committee, therefore, recommend that the number of employes in said office be reduced to nine, at an annual expense of $16,500. The Committee propose the following salaries to be paid:

Clerk, $7,500; Deputy, $3,500; First Assistant Clerk, $2,500; Second Assistant Clerk, $2,500; Third Assistant Clerk, $2,500; Fourth Assistant Clerk, $2,500; Fifth Assistant Clerk, $2,500; Sixth Assistant Clerk, $2,500; Recording Clerk, $2,500; Stenographer, $3,000; Journal Clerk, $3,000; Index Clerk, $2,500; General Clerk, $2,500; Official Reporter, $3,500; Messenger, $1,800; Assistant Messenger, $1,800; Messenger to the President, $2,500; Sergeant-at-Arms, $2,500; Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, $2,500; Doorkeeper, $1,800; Reader, $1,800. Which was laid over.

The residents of the Twenty-second Ward sent in a communication, which was referred, asking the Common Council to give them every half hour, or at least every hour at night, one car on the Eighth-avenue line from Forty-ninth-street to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street. Adjourned.

The Yorkville Police Justiceship—Close of the Testimony—Summing Up.

The Murray-Coulter case was continued before Judge BRADY and a jury, yesterday. REYNOLDS FECHTER, a broker of the Equitable Insurance Company, testified that, immediately prior to the election, he had a consultation with the defendant COULTER, in which the latter said he was bound to be elected, even if the votes came from ——. COULTER contradicted the testimony of HUGGINS, the proprietor of Lovejoy's Hotel, to the effect that COULTER had asked for a private room with an open grate, or had occupied any such room. Mr. STOUGHTON summed up the case on behalf of COULTER, and Mr. PORTER will sum up on behalf of the plaintiff, MURRAY, today.

The Beard Contested Will—The Case Decided by the Surrogate—The Paper Admitted to Probate.

Hon. R. C. HUTCHINGS, Surrogate, yesterday rendered his opinion in the matter of the contested will of WM. BEARD, deceased, in which he decides to admit the paper propounded to probate. The case has been before the Court for a year past, and a large amount of testimony has been taken, duly reported from time to time. Mr. BEARD was a well-known builder of this City, and at the time of his death was about seventy years. He left a property valued at about $80,000. His death occurred in July, 1870, and under singular circumstances, as he disappeared from home, and his body was subsequently found floating in the North River. The inference was that he had committed suicide while laboring under a fit of insanity. By a will executed Oct. 19, 1869, the testator devised his property to his children, consisting of one son and three daughters, the larger portion of which was given to the son. The will was contested by one of the daughters, upon the ground mainly that at the time of its execution the testator was of unsound mind. The Surrogate's opinion which is a formidable document of eighty printed pages, bears evidence that the questions at issue have been carefully considered.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The market opened yesterday, Jan. 22, with a better feeling, the sales at the Exchange not only being very largely attended but meeting with a much better success than was expected, nearly all the property offered being disposed of, and at good figures. The following is in brief a review of the transactions, the details in regard to which will be found below in the summary appended: MULLER, WILKINS & CO., at public auction to close an interest, sold the four-story brown-stone front building and lot on Broadway, adjoining the Metropolitan Hotel and running through to Crosby-street, known as the Helmbold drug-store, for $148,000, the purchaser of the property being Mr. H. BEADEL; price was considered a very fair one. The same firm at a receiver's sale, by order of THEODORE M. DAVIS, Esq., receiver of the Ocean National Bank, also sold real estate as follows, the title to which was vested in that institution: Four-story and basement brown-stone front, building and lot on the south-east corner of Greenwich and Fulton streets, lately occupied by the bank sold for $40,050 to Mr. A. R. ENO; and 9 building lots on the north-west corner of the Seventh-avenue Boulevard and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth-street; sold at prices ranging from $5,025 to $7,027 each, the buyer being J. MCADAM. Messrs. MULLER & CO. also offered at auction a plot of land containing about three city lots, located on Broadway, between Dyckman and Academy streets, and forming a part of the Dyckman tract, which, although several bids were received, was not sold. In addition to the above, JOSEPH MCGUIRE, under a Supreme Court order in foreclosure, GRATZ NATHAN, Esq., referee, disposed of a leasehold property, embracing a four-story brick house and lot, located on the west side of Third-avenue, between Sixty-first and Sixty-second streets, for $10,600; purchaser, HENRY MCSHANE. This sale closed the business of the day. The following auction sale was made at the Exchange on Saturday by MULLER, WILKINS & CO., an allusion to which was inadvertently omitted yesterday: Plot of land 60.3 by 219 by 69.5 by 222, situate on the west side of the Boulevard, 111 feet north of Ninety-ninth-street, and running through to Eleventh-avenue. Sold by order of the Superior Court in an action of foreclosure, under the direction of JOSEPH R. FLANDERS, Esq., referee, and purchased by BROWN & BASSETT, plaintiffs in the suit, for $25,000. For today, at the Exchange, several legal sales are announced, particulars in reference to which were given yesterday, and as the property to be sold is comparatively of little value, further mention is unnecessary.

FINANCIAL.

EIGHT PER CT. BONDS, OF GREENE COUNTY, State of Missouri.

The attention of investors is called to the above Bonds, which are issued to the Kansas City and Memphis branch of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company. The total debt of Greene County, prior to the issue of these bonds, was about $15,000. The assessed valuation of taxable property—which is estimated at half its actual value—is $6,713,078, in addition to which some $2,000,000 of railroad property will become taxable for the first time during the present year.

The entire issue of these bonds is $400,000, in coupon bonds of $1,000 each, bearing date Aug. 1, 1871, and maturing in twenty years. Interest, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, is payable in New-York on the first days of February and August in each year. We are authorized to offer this loan to the public at 80 and accrued interest, with the reserved right to advance the price at any time. At this price they pay OVER ELEVEN PER CENT. on the investment.

Government and other marketable securities received in exchange at current rates, we paying express charges both ways.

Pamphlets, &c., with full particulars, or any further information, will be furnished upon application, either personally or by letter.

AMUSEMENTS.

PAREPA-ROSA ENGLISH OPERA.

Mr. CARL ROSA feels honored in being able to announce that, at a large outlay, he has been enabled to effect an arrangement with the greatest of living barytones, by means of which the public will at an early date be afforded an opportunity of listening to this great artist in some of his most important operatic impersonations. Since Mr. SANTLEY'S arrival in his country a widespread desire has been felt to hear his noble voice in opera, as well as in the concert-room, and respecting this desire, Mr. ROSA has left no effort untried to bring about the consummation of the wishes of the public, who have always treated his efforts with so much kindness, appreciation and approbation.

Mr. CHARLES SANTLEY,

Mr. SANTLEY'S first operatic appearance in New-York will take place in connexion with the

which will commence its season at the

ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
MONDAY, Feb. 5.

No effort will be spared to make the event one of the greatest significance in art circles.

Mr. SANTLEY'S reputation is so well established on both sides of the Atlantic that advance praise of him were superfluous, and Mr. ROSA can but express his gratification in having the honor of introducing to American operatic audiences an artist who has won the admiration of two hemispheres.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE.—WASHINGTON, Monday, Jan. 22.

Memorials were presented in favor of passing the Supplementary Civil Rights bill; for a uniform system of coinage, (from merchants and citizens on the Pacific coast.)

RELIEF FOR CHICAGO.

Mr. WRIGHT, of Iowa, from the Finance Committee, reported a bill for the relief of the Chicago sufferers, with amendments.

It allows the free importation of all goods sent from abroad for the relief of the sufferers; also, the free importation of all building materials used or to be used upon the ground burned over; also, the suspension of the collection of taxes from persons who, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, have suffered material loss by the fire. The suspension is not to continue beyond the close of the next regular session of Congress. It is to go into effect immediately after its passage, instead of dating back to Oct. 9, 1871.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Mr. RAMSEY, of Minnesota, from the Post-office Committee, reported the Postal Telegraph bill, and said the Committee hoped to bring it up at an early day. In almost all other countries the cost of telegraphic messages had been reduced to about the rates proposed in this bill, and it was important that the subject should be considered here without unnecessary delay.

BILLS REPORTED.

Mr. LOGAN, of Illinois, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported without amendment a bill to enable honorably discharged soldiers and sailors and their widows and orphans to acquire homesteads on the public lands.

Mr. COLE, of California, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported without amendment the House bill making good the deficiency in the Post-office appropriations, caused by the McCarthey defalcation.

Mr. KELLOGG, from the Committee on Commerce, reported with amendments the bill relating to the entry of merchandise at New-Orleans.

MRS. ROBERT E. LEE AND ARLINGTON.

Mr. LEWIS, of Virginia, presented a petition from MARY ANN R. LEE, widow of Gen. ROBERT E. LEE, setting forth:

That the Arlington estate was bequeathed to her by her father, GEO. W. P. CUSTIS, in 1857, and occupied by herself and family until the commencement of the late civil war; that it was sold for non-payment of a direct tax of $92 07, and by order of President LINCOLN bid in by the United States for $26,800, no portion of which sum was ever paid to the owner of said property. The petition urges that the above named proceedings were insufficient to pass a legal or valid title to the United States, because the act of Congress under which said sale was made is unconstitutional; the act constituting Congress to exercise exclusive jurisdiction over such places only as are purchased by the consent of the State in which they are situated, for the purpose alone of erecting forts and other needful buildings. It is further argued that the General Government has never attempted to exercise any exclusive legislation, or to call in question the jurisdiction of Virginia over that portion of the County of Alexandria, and also that the sale of the whole 1,100 acres to pay a tax of $90, while the tract was clearly divisable and the sale of a portion amply sufficient to pay the tax upon it, unconstitutional. It is also asserted that the amount of this tax was duly tendered to the TAX Commissioner before the said sale. In view of these circumstances the petitioner asks Congress to appropriate $300,000 to purchase the estate from her, whereupon she will give the Government a clear title.

GEN. BLAIR WANTS CUBA.

Mr. BLAIR, of Missouri, introduced the following joint resolution, which was laid on the table and ordered to be printed:

Whereas, The Island of Cuba is no longer necessary to the safety of any continental dominions of Spain, and is of vast importance to secure the southern shores of the United states from invasion, and the commerce floated from the great rivers of the continent into the Gulf of Mexico from depredation; and, whereas, the acquisition of Cuba by the United States would enhance, not only its commercial importance, but give United States but to all the commercial nations of the world, and especially to Spain, and for the same reason that the incorporation of the colonies of England, France and Spain has promoted the development of their commerce with their mother countries; and whereas, the acquisition of Cuba would free the American Continent from the last vestige of slavery by the operation of the laws of the United States, and would open for immigration to the free men of African descent now residing in the United States a congenial climate and rich soil well adapted to their physical constitutions, where their intelligent labor would find its richest rewards, promoting the improvement of the race, and guaranteeing their prosperity and equality under free institutions; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled, That the President be, and is hereby requested, to open negotiations with Spain for the purchase and cession of the Island of Cuba.

AMNESTY.

The Amnesty bill came up as unfinished business. Mr. EDMUNDS had the floor, but was unable, owing to other engagements, to proceed with his remarks.

GARRET DAVIS.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, moved to lay aside the Amnesty bill informally, for the purpose of taking up his resolution, directing the Committee on Retrenchment to inquire whether the President has conferred public offices in return for presents. He offered a modification of it, directing inquiry into the expediency of forbidding officials to receive any gift or to appoint relatives to office.

Messrs. CONKLING and MORTON were willing to have the resolution taken up, but not by laying the Amnesty bill aside informally, because that would enable any Senator to cut off the debate by calling for the regular order.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, opposed laying the Amnesty bill aside, otherwise than informally, and thought that Mr. DAVIS ought to be allowed to take up his resolution and make his speech in the ordinary way.

Mr. CONKLING, of New-York, said that this was a very extraordinary resolution, and he desired that whenever it should be taken up it should be fully discussed and pressed to a vote, so that the judgment of the American Senate might be promptly given upon its merits and its propriety.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky—I concede that this resolution is a very extraordinary one, but I insist that the subject and the occasion of it are very extraordinary too. [Laughter.] They are amply sufficient to justify the resolution, at least they are so in my judgment, and I decide questions of propriety for myself. Mr. DAVIS then quoted from Mr. CONKLING'S speech on the Ku-Klux debate before the recess, in which he said that whenever anybody should propose any investigation aimed at either individuals or officials, or would point out any branch of the public service, he (Mr. CONKLING) would favor the most radical and sweeping investigation that could be made, and said "Now, here is a branch of the public service needing investigation. I have proposed this resolution on my own responsibility, and whatever may be the scandal of it I am ready to bear it. I want to bring of the political forest, as well as the lesser beasts, to be investigated. [Laughter.] I want the Committee to investigate the lion in his den, the Douglass in his halls, and for one I am disposed to head a march to beard that lion in his den. [Laughter.] The office of Chief Executive Magistrate is said to be the fountain of honor; but it is the fountain of dishonor, of abuse and corruption, in our country. I would purified to tree, manly, unfettered and unfaltering investigation. What have we seen within a few days? The President of the United States published as a defaulter to the amount of four or five thousand dollars for upward of twenty years. I presented my resolution. The newspapers opposed upon him, and at last driven by the denunciations of the papers, or some other cause, he was forced to come forward and make good the amount of his defalcation.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, suggested that the Senator (Mr. DAVIS) was discussing the merits of his resolution, although it was not before the Senate.

Mr. DAVIS—Then I will not pursue that line of remark.

Mr. SHERMAN said that the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. DAVIS) must know that when he offered a resolution arraigning the President in this way, it must give rise to a general discussion. He was willing to postpone the Amnesty bill, with the understanding that this resolution was to take its place until disposed of; and he gave notice to the friends of the Amnesty bill that he would not agree to have it taken up again until they shall have made up their minds to stand by it and press it to a vote.

Mr. THURMAN, of Ohio, advised Mr. DAVIS to withdraw his motion, as to press it would plainly give rise to a long and probably an excited debate, which would postpone the Amnesty bill.

Mr. DAVIS said he knew it would give rise to a debate, and he was prepared for the most exciting debate that could arise. [Laughter.] But he did not wish to antagonize it against the Amnesty bill, and therefore he would withdraw it now, but would soon again bring it before the Senate.

AMNESTY RESUMED.

The Amnesty bill was then taken up. The pending amendment was Mr. SUMNER'S Supplementary Civil Rights bill.

Mr. MORTON, of Indiana, suggested to Mr. SUMNER to strike out all of it relating to church and cemetery organizations.

Mr. SAWYER, of South Carolina, read a reply to criticisms made upon his course in opposing the tacking of the Supplementary Civil Rights bill on to the Amnesty bill.

Mr. HILL, of Georgia, replied to Mr. SUMNER'S criticisms upon him for doing the same thing.

Mr. ROBERTSON, of South Carolina, moved to lay this bill aside and take up the last Amnesty bill passed by the House.

Mr. TRUMBULL, of Illinois, supported the motion, and hoped the Senate would pass the last House Amnesty bill without amendment; and if Mr. SUMNER should persist in offering the Civil Rights bill as an amendment, he hoped the Senate would declare it out of order, as it in fact was. He also expressed the hope that Mr. SUMNER'S bill would never pass in its present form.

Mr. CONKLING, of New-York, opposed the motion.

Mr. MORTON, of Indiana, said that Mr. SUMNER had agreed to accept the amendment suggested by him today.

Mr. THURMAN, of Ohio, supported it, and repeated his opinion, expressed when Mr. SUMNER'S amendment was first offered, that it was unconstitutional.

Mr. NYE, of Nevada, opposed the motion, advocated Mr. SUMNER'S amendment, and said that those at the South who were so anxious to be allowed to come back to Washington and take part in making the laws, had better agree to let colored men ride in the same cars with them, lest otherwise they should not be allowed to come at all. He had heard that this Civil Rights bill was unconstitutional, but if it was, then the Constitution should be amended.

Mr. ROBERTSON, of South Carolina, said he intended to vote for Mr. SUMNER'S bill, but thought it unwise to tack it on to this Amnesty bill.

Mr. THURMAN, of Ohio, said he knew too much to expect to make the Senator from Nevada (Mr. NYE) understand a constitutional argument, but for the benefit of others who were less disposed to ridicule the Constitution, he would point out some particulars in which he thought this bill unconstitutional, which he did at length.

Then, at 4½ P. M., without action, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Speaker took the chair.

Mr. HOOPER, of Massachusetts, introduced a bill to authorize the construction of ten steam sloops-of-war.

Mr. PACKER, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill to amend the Constitution by making Senators and Representatives ineligible to the Presidency and Vice-Presidency.

SUPPRESSING POLYGAMY.

Mr. SARGENT, of California, introduced a bill to suppress polygamy, and to enable the people of Utah to form a Constitution and State Government.

It provides that a Convention shall provide by an ordinance irrevocable without the consent of the United States and the people of said State:

First—That there shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in said State, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been convicted.

Second—That no law shall ever be enacted by the Legislature of said State legalizing or authorizing bigamy, polygamy or plural marriage.

Third—That for the period of ten years after the ratification of this Constitution members of the Legislature, and all officers, executive, judicial and ministerial, shall, before they enter upon the duties of their respective offices, and all persons offering to vote shall, before they are permitted to cast or deposit their votes or ballots, take the following oath or affirmation:

I do solemnly swear or affirm that I have not contracted or commenced to enter upon relations of bigamy, polygamy, or plural marriage, since the adoption of this Constitution, and that I will not hereafter contract or commence to enter upon such relations. (If an oath,) So help me, God. (If an affirmation,) Under the pains and penalties of perjury.

Fourth—That perfect toleration of religious sentiment shall be secured, and no inhabitant of said State shall ever be molested in person or property on account of his or her mode of religious worship.

Fifth—That all legitimate children born prior to Jan. 1, 1873, and their mothers, shall inherit from the father in like manner with the wife and legitimate children.

Sixth—Is a declaration of disclaimer to public lands, or right to tax or control the same.

BANKRUPTCY.

Mr. DUELL, of New-York, introduced a bill which proposes:

To amend the Bankrupt law by suspending the fifty per cent. clause in the act of 1868 until Jan. 1, 1873, so as to allow discharges to be granted upon petitions filed prior to that time, although the assets of the bankrupt shall not be equal to fifty per cent. It also makes provision for reducing the expenses of the proceedings in cases of involuntary bankruptcy, and strikes out several clauses of the present law allowing Courts to grant extra allowance to assignees, attorneys and messengers.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING IN SYRACUSE.

Mr. DUELL, of New-York, introduced a bill providing for a Government building at Syracuse, and appropriating $250,000 for that purpose, provided the corporate authorities of that city will deed to the United States the premises known as the City-Hall-square for a site.

DUTIES ON SHIP-BUILDING MATERIALS.

After the call of States for bills, Mr. HALE'S bill, remitting the duties on all materials for the construction, repair, and use of ships was taken up, and, after discussion, was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

NEGOTIATING THE LOAN.

Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, presented the report of the Committee on Ways and Means, on the subject of the negotiation of the funded debt, with a resolution declaring that the Secretary of the Treasury in negotiating the loan authorized by the act of July 14, 1870, has neither increased the bonded debt nor incurred an expenditure contrary to law.

The report was ordered to be printed, to be called up for future action.

Mr. KERR, of Indiana, from the minority of the Committee, said that a minority report would probably be presented.

BOUNTY CLAIMS.

A bill introduced last Monday by Mr. HOLMAN, of Indiana, extending the time for presenting claims for additional bounty was amended by extending the time to Jan. 30, 1873, and was passed.

A UNIFORM TOBACCO TAX.

Mr. PORTER, of Virginia, introduced a bill establishing the tax on all descriptions of manufactured tobacco at the uniform rate of sixteen cents per pound, and asked to have it put upon its passage.

Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, objected, and the bill was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. FARNSWORTH, of Illinois, offered a resolution instructing the Committee for the District of Columbia to inquire into the allegations in the memorial of the tax-payers of Washington, charging all sorts of corrupt practices on the Board of Works under the new Territorial Government. He sent the memorial to the Clerk's desk and had it read, and then alluded to the fact that the enormous sums of $6,000,000 had been paid to newspapers of the District for advertising within the last eight months. One of the papers was a little theatrical programme, and another a sheet which he had never heard of before, and which announced its subscription terms to be one cent a year, payable at the end of the year.

Mr. HOAR, of Massachusetts, remarked that the present condition of things in the District was the result of Congress having parted with its jurisdiction over it.

Mr. POTTER, of Virginia, said he accepted the reproof contained in Mr. HOAR'S remarks, and sincerely regretted that he had supported the bill for the new Territorial Government. The abuses of that Government were so great and extraordinary that they should be investigated by the House.

Mr. WOOD, of New-York, also expressed his regret that he had supported the Territorial Government bill, but he did not concede that that bill parted with the jurisdiction of Congress over the District. He thought that the investigation should be referred to a special committee.

Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, joined the New-York members in expressing his regret that the new Territorial Government had been established. He had long ago pledged himself that whenever he saw the head of a rascal or a thief, whether in his own or any other party, he would hit it if he could. He believed in probing the sores of his own party. If the condition of things in the District were such as to commend itself to the public judgment, he wanted the party to have the credit of it, but if it was as represented in the petition, going from bad to worse, and from worse to worst, he wanted the fact to be made known, and the guilty persons held up to reprobation. He therefore heartily supported the proposition. Mr. COX also supported the resolution. He said he had not voted for the miserable caricature of a Government existing in the District of Columbia, for he would not consent to tie the whole District to the door-bell of the White House.

Mr. ELDRIDGE, of Wisconsin, said he had also opposed the bill on constitutional grounds; although many of his Democratic friends had thought that the giving to the President the power of appointing the members of one branch of the Legislature would have resulted in placing on that Board men of the highest character and reputation without regard to politics, but the result had falsified such an opinion.

Mr. STARKWEATHER, of Connecticut, Chairman of the District Committee, favored the proposed investigation, but held that his Committee was quite competent and willing to take care of it.

Mr. FARNSWORTH remarked that himself and the petitioners were quite satisfied to have the matter referred to that Committee.

Mr. CHIPMAN, of the District of Columbia, deprecated any prejuding of the case, and expressed his own desire and that of the Territorial Government for a full, complete and impartial investigation.

The resolution was then adopted.

NEW-YORK HARBOR.

Mr. NEGLEY, of Pennsylvania, offered a resolution directing the Committee on Commerce to investigate the Quarantine and harbor regulations of New-York, and also into the means of reviving and sustaining American commerce, with power to send for persons and papers, and to hold sessions in New-York City. Referred to Committee on Commerce.

NATURALIZED CITIZENS AND THE PRESIDENCY.

Mr. MORGAN, of Ohio, moved to suspend the rules and pass the joint resolution proposing to amend the Constitution by making naturalized citizens eligible to the Presidency and Vice-Presidency. Negatived—yeas 91, nays 75, less than the requisite two-thirds in the affirmative.

DISABILITIES REMOVED.

Mr. WHITELEY, of Georgia, introduced a bill to remove the political disabilities of some half a dozen persons in South Carolina. Passed.

Mr. WALLACE, of South Carolina, introduced a bill to remove the political disabilities of some half a dozen persons in South Carolina. Passed.

THE JAPANESE EMBASSY.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported a bill appropriating $50,000 to defray the expenses of the Embassy from Japan, and asked that it be passed.

Mr. MCNEELEY, of Illinois, objected.

Mr. GARFIELD moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill. He gave a brief explanation of the matter, and referred to precedents for the bill.

Mr. KERR, of Indiana, inquired whether it had been understood by the Japanese authorities that the United States authorities would pay the expenses of the Embassy.

Mr. BANKS replied that there was no such understanding; the Embassy was one of the highest character; its object was to make inquiries and to gain instruction in reference to the renewal of the existing treaties with the Treaty Powers; it was not authorized to make new treaties, but to ask an extension of those now existing until the Japanese should have time to inform themselves as to their revision. The Embassy consisted of a Chief Ambassador, who had been described in dispatches to the Government as a person always in attendance on the Emperor. He was accompanied by three Vice-Ambassadors, one of whom, Gov. IWO, was well known to many members of the House. There were twenty-one members of the Embassy who were the chief officers of the eight different departments of the Government of Japan, and who were instructed to make inquiry into the management of similar departments in the United States and foreign countries. He spoke of the great progress made by Japan since the first treaty negotiated in 1854, by Commodore PERRY, and said that courtesy and good policy alike required the appropriation to be made. After considerable discussion the bill was passed without yeas and nays.

THE NEW-ORLEANS COMMITTEE.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported a resolution instructing the Clerk of the House to furnish to the Select Committee going to New-Orleans.

The Speaker, in connection with that subject, announced that he had appointed Mr. ARCHER, of Maryland, and Mr. SPEER, of Pennsylvania, members of that Committee, instead of Messrs. VOORHEES and MARSHALL, excused from service.

Mr. FARNSWORTH, of Illinois, inquired of Mr. GARFIELD as to the propriety of the Committee going to New-Orleans at all.

Mr. GARFIELD replied that was a matter for which he was not responsible. The House had ordered the subject to be committed, and if the House took back that order, he should be very glad to take back the resolution.

Mr. FARNSWORTH said that the adoption of the resolution would be taken as an order of instruction to the Committee to go to New-Orleans. It seemed to him that the difficulty there was so far accommodating itself as to render it unnecessary to send the Committee. Besides he did not quite see what Congress was going to do about it. It seemed to him that Congress might possess itself of the facts pretty nearly as well without sending a committee there. He knew that the Committee did not want to go to New-Orleans, but if the House desired it to go, it might intimate its desire by adopting a resolution.

Mr. SCOFIELD, of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the Committee, said that the Committee had no voice in the matter. He believed that every member of the Committee preferred not to go. He supposed the facts could be got at in Washington without any considerable expense.

Mr. HALE, of Maine, inquired of Mr. SCOFIELD if affairs had so changed since the passage of the resolution as to obviate the necessity of going to New-Orleans. He saw the Warmoth faction had possession. He would like to know what the Committee could do when it got there, either in confirming his possession or controverting it.

Mr. SCOFIELD replied that some aspects of the case had changed for the better, while others were quite as bad or worse than they had been before.

Mr. SHELDON, of Louisiana, said that he had all the time been adverse to the appointment of a committee to investigate in New-Orleans. It was a thing with which Congress had no right to meddle. There could be no question now but that the Senate of Louisiana was legally constituted, but there was still one question as to the legality of the constitution of the House of Representatives. Still he did not see how Congress or the Government of the United States was to determine that question.

Mr. GARFIELD said there was little to be investigated concerning the State Government of Louisiana, so far as Congress had power to investigate it, but there was one element down there which he thought Congress ought to investigate. It report was to be trusted, a revenue cutter of the United States had been used to carry away a portion of the Legislature, and to keep them out of the reach of the officers. If the officers down there had done a tithe of what had been alleged against them, it was high time that that matter should be investigated, and if they had not done it, it was high time that the Government should be freed from the odium which would so justly fall upon it if those things had been done.

Mr. FARNSWORTH inquired whether a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to whether the revenue cutter which had been so used answered all the purposes.

Mr. GARFIELD replied that he was not now speaking as to the best method of getting information; he thought that if there was occasion for making any investigation at all, it should see to it in the first place that the agents of the Government were not meddling in the affairs of Louisiana.

Mr. SHELDON remarked that the President and the Secretary of the Treasury were in possession of all the facts relating to the action of the United States officers at New-Orleans, and were competent to manage the affairs themselves.

Mr. BECK, of Kentucky, believed that if any investigation was had it should be held upon the spot, and the House ought either to withdraw the Committee altogether or direct it to go to New-Orleans and furnish it with the means of doing so. When that question was before the Joint Committee on Southern Outrages every Democrat on that Committee voted to go to Louisiana and investigate the condition of things there, while every Republican voted against it.

Mr. DAWES said that he had introduced the resolution raising the Committee, and had not done so suddenly, or until after deliberation and consultation. Since the raising of the Committee it had been stated that the most strenuous efforts had been made by the Executive and others to prevent it from going to New-Orleans. He had only to say that that was not true.

Mr. VOORHEES, of Indiana, remarked that no member had exaggerated the importance of the events transpiring in New-Orleans. The gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. DAWES) was entitled to the thanks of the country for the independence of his conduct in coming forward and inviting an investigation which would fall on his own political friends. The condition of things in Louisiana was a most extraordinary one; an American State had been trying for two or three weeks to convene its Legislature and had been trying in vain. During that time the spectacle had been presented of an American officer in command of United States troops, marching its troops back and forward daily between the Senate and State-House, under orders from somewhere, until at last a mob had gone to his (Gen. EMORY'S) head-quarters, and there, in a way disgraceful to itself, and disgraceful to the age, asked him to proclaim martial law. The answer was not creditable to the officer, but it was just the answer the mob. He told them to go home or he would give them grape and canister.

Mr. MAYNARD suggested that that statement had been denied.

Mr. VOORHEES knew that the denial had been made, and that the Legislature had not been able to convene, and somebody was to blame, and today there was a proclamation or pronunciamento, after the Mexican fashion, that at a certain hour the Speaker would proceed to open the Legislature with force and arms, telling the people, with disregard for their safety, to close their houses and places of business and keep off the streets, as somebody might be hurt.

Mr. FARNSWORTH asked Mr. VOORHEES what Congress was to do when it found out the facts to be as stated.

Mr. VOORHEES—(excited)—Oh don't ask me what Congress will do.

Mr. FARNSWORTH—What ought it to do?

Mr. VOORHEES—In my judgment it ought to do a great many things connected with Southern affairs which the gentleman from Illinois, with even his strong sense of justice, which I recognize, would not agree with me in. I have been in the South this Summer, and my judgment is that the Southern Governments are the worst in the world, without any exception. There is nothing comparable to them anywhere else. They are unparalleled for their iniquity, their infamy, and their ignorance. The law-makers are incompetent to make law. When you show me a Legislature, four-fifths of whose members can neither read nor write, who do not pay even a poll-tax, and set them to do the duty of levying taxes for untold millions on the property and intelligence of the community, I will show you, as I have said, a Government that is the worst beneath the sun.

Mr. SHELLABARGER, of Ohio, replied to Mr. VOORHEES, but first he defended the President from the insinuations published against him, to the effect that he was opposed to the Committee going to New-Orleans. He wished Mr. VOORHEES had been more explicit on that cardinal elementary proposition of his—that the Southern Governments had been set up on the wrong end. Did he mean that, when Congress placed the Governments of those States on the votes of all the people, that was setting the pyramid on the apex instead of on the base? Did he mean that Congress should take away the votes from any portion of the people?

Mr. ELDRIDGE—No; but we propose to invest the intelligent people of the South with it.

Mr. SHELLABARGER, not noticing the interruption, went on to speak of the problems presenting themselves in the work of reconstruction.

The debate throughout was very exciting, and at the close the resolution was adopted without a division.

The House adjourned at 5 P. M.

Judge Bedford's Grand Jury at Work—Renewed Investigation Into the Municipal Frauds.

There is a general feeling of apprehension among persons in any way concerned in the Municipal frauds, now that the Grand Jury of Oyer and Terminer has been discharged, and Judge BEDFORD'S jury, as it is called, is allowed to take unobstructed action. New indictments, it is understood, will be found against all persons who have been indicted by the General Sessions Jury during the sitting of the Jury of Oyer and Terminer. This jury, it will be remembered, in their famous "protest," stated that they have evidence of frauds to the extent of $15,000 000 against the City. The jury were in session yesterday, and it was rumored that they had immediately entered into the investigation of the Ring robberies. Upon inquiry being made of District-Attorney GARVIN, that gentleman assured our reporter that the jury had been simply taking cognisance of ordinary criminal cases. A prominent official was heard to make the statement, upon professed information, that the jury would bring in indictments against 1,500 persons who have been concerned in robbing the City.

THE BROOKLYN REGISTRY LAW.

Passage of the Act as Amended by the Committee of Seventy-Five.

The Citizens' Reform Committee met last evening at No. 185 Montague-street, and proceeded to consider the Registry law as amended, finally concluding to recommend it in the form of which the following is an abstract:

The Mayor, Controller, and Auditor of the City of Brooklyn are empowered to designate and appoint three persons to constitute the Board of Elections. No person holding any public office of any kind shall be eligible. On the first Monday of September the Board shall meet, and shall designate for each Election District three registers and inspectors of election, and three canvassers. The said registers and Inspectors shall make the registry, and they shall hold the elections and preside at the same. They shall meet on the last Tuesday of September, and the first and second Tuesdays of October, for the purpose of registering the names of the legal voters. Such list, when completed, shall constitute and be known as the Registry of Electors of said district.

The said Boards of Registers and Inspectors shall meet on the Saturday occurring ten days before the day of the general election, and they shall then revise and correct and complete the said registries.

On the Saturday preceding the day of election said registers and inspectors of election shall hold a meeting for revising and correcting the registries of election, to receive testimony and arrange for challenge at the poll.

The said Boards of Registers and Inspectors shall carefully preserve the said registries of electors for use on election day.

The said Boards of Registers and Inspectors shall form a Board of Inspectors of Election by appointing one of their members to be Chairman.

The Chairman shall administer the usual oath of office to the clerks before they enter upon the performance of their duties. The compensation of such registers, inspectors and canvassers of election and clerks shall be ten dollars per day each; and the said registers and inspectors shall be exempt from jury duty during the year for which they are appointed. The clerks shall enter on the poll-lists the name of each person voting, his place of residence, his age, the number of ballots voted, and for what office the same are voted. Upon the closing of the polls, the inspectors shall securely seal the several ballot-boxes, and deliver the same, together with the poll-lists and register of electors to the Board of Canvassers.

At least fifteen minutes before the closing of the poll the Board of Canvassers shall organize, and the Police shall deliver the key of the ballot-boxes to them; and it shall be their duty to attend at the place of holding the poll at the closing thereof. They shall receive from the inspectors of election the said ballot-boxes, poll-lists and registers of electors, and as soon as the poll shall have been finally closed, shall canvass and count the votes. Such canvass shall be public, and shall not be adjourned or postponed until it shall have been fully completed. Upon the completion of the canvass, the canvassers shall make returns in triplicate. One copy shall be deposited with the City Clerk and one with the County Clerk. The remaining copy shall be deposited with the Police Department, by whom it shall be at once opened and its contents publicly announced on a bulletin board. It shall also, under proper regulations for its safe keeping, be open to the inspection of any candidate. Each person who shall be appointed as register and inspector of elections, and as canvasser of elections, shall, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, take the oath now prescribed by law for inspectors and canvassers of elections.

Every person appointed as a register and inspector of elections, or as canvasser of elections, failing to take and file the oath of office, or who shall neglect or refuse to discharge the duties of such register and inspector, or canvasser, shall, unless excused by the Board of Elections, be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars. Any register, inspector or canvasser of elections who shall willfully absent himself from his duties, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the County Jail for not less than thirty days.

Any person who shall willfully make any false statement to any board of Registers and Inspectors shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by imprisonment in the County Jail for not less than thirty days, and not to exceed three months.

Any person who shall cause his name to be registered in more than one election district, or who shall cause his name to be registered, knowing that he is not a qualified voter in the district where such registry is made, or who shall falsely personate any registered voter, or who shall register under a false name, shall, upon conviction, be imprisoned in the State Prison for not less than one year, nor more than two years.

The Board of Aldermen shall, on the third Monday of September in each year, designate, and afterward publish in at least three newspapers, the places for holding the polls, and for the meeting of the said Boards of Registers and Inspectors. But no building shall be designated as such place of registry or polling place in any part of which wine, beer or intoxicating liquor is sold.

Any person who shall mingle, or attempt to mingle, any ballot or ballots that have not been voted with any ballot or ballots that have been voted, or who shall destroy or remove any ballot that has been voted, or who shall abstract, or in any respect forge, alter, destroy, or make away with any registry, certificate, count, tally, statement or return, or shall falsely count, read or tally any name or names on any ticket that has been voted, shall, on conviction, be punished by imprisonment in a State's prison for not less than one or more than three years.

No person shall be appointed as register and inspector, or canvasser of elections, unless he shall be a qualified voter and resident in the ward containing the election district for which he may be appointed, nor unless he shall be able to read, write and speak the English language. No person shall be appointed as register and inspector, or canvasser of elections, or clerk, who shall hold at the time of his appointment any public office or place of public trust.

It shall be unlawful for any register, inspector, canvasser or poll clerk to distribute any ballot, or any person during the time the polls shall be open, or to have in their possession or within their control any ballot or ballots, except in the lawful discharge of their duties as prescribed by this act. While the polls are open, each ballot-box shall be so placed as to be entirely visible to persons in front of the polls.

The canvassers, when they shall have canvassed all the ballots in any box, shall immediately announce the result, and send a written statement thereof to the officer in charge of the Police precinct in which the election district is located; and that officer shall immediately transmit by telegraph the result. A such statement to the head of the Police Department.

The term of office of the several inspectors and canvassers of election, chosen at the last general election in the said City of Brooklyn, shall cease on the appointment of the registers and inspectors and canvassers of elections provided for in this act.

All laws and provisions of existing laws inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed so far as regards the City of Brooklyn.

This act shall take effect immediately.

The Contract for the New Reservoir.

In a communication to the Water Board, JULIUS W. ADAMS, the Chief Engineer, replies to the statements made by the Committee of Fifty, to which was appended the offer of Mr. WILLIAM BEARD to do the work of constructing the new reservoir. He says that it is not pretended that KINGSLEY & KEENEY were the lowest bidders, and then, after going into details, concludes as follows:

"As before remarked, with the publicity now given to the facts and figures, doubtless contractors could be found who would underbid KINGSLEY & KEENEY, but the margin between the figures of the latter, as they now stand, and what, from the care required in the construction of the work, in view of the interests at stake, we have assumed as the estimated value of the work, is too slight to jeopardize the entire success of the enterprise, by any such process as the one proposed to save to the treasury of the third city in the Union in the cost of her unrivaled water-works."

Mr. WILLIAM C. KINGSLEY, one of the contractors, sends a communication to the Committee of Fifty on the same subject, in which he goes into a history of the present water-works, and concludes as follows:

"In conclusion, let me say, gentlemen, that if your purpose in organizing as a 'Committee of Fifty' is to secure for Brooklyn a good, cheap, but still a progressive Government, you have my best wishes for success. I have every confidence in many of your number, and some of you I know to be fair and upright men. Still I may be pardoned for suggesting that the spirit in which your organization was created may carry you further than many of you intended to go. In your name it was charged, in a time of great local excitement, that there were grave and vast delinquencies in our municipal and financial concerns. You may think if you do not find what I believe has no existence, the public will be disappointed with you, and I am afraid there are individuals among you, who will be themselves disappointed. This feeling has inspired publications intended, I fear, to inflame the public mind, or to stave off a disappointment which every man whose fortunes are allied with those of Brooklyn, hope to see admitted very soon, in the public interest.

The firm of which I am one, intend to complete the Hempstead reservoir under our contract. It is a fair contract; it was obtained fairly, and after free competition with men whose business reputation is like my own, of more value to me than any wealth I ever hope to accumulate."

Brief Notes.

The Russian frigate Svetlana left Brooklyn yesterday about 5 o'clock, her officers and crew saluting the passengers by the ferry-boats crossing at the time.

The Supervisors yesterday resolved to pay MUNDELL & TERRETT $6,000 for drawing plans for a new county jail. The bill was originally $15,000. It was reduced to $8,000, and the architects have now concluded to accept $6,000.

Mayor POWELL has signed the warrants, amounting to $44,621 04, for paving Seventh-avenue with Scrimshaw pavement. This is the al-

THE WHARTON TRIAL.

Closing Scenes—Continuation of the Argument for the Defense—The Attorney-General's Address to the Jury.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 22.—The Court-room was crowded to suffocation today by persons desirous of witnessing the closing scenes in this remarkable trial. Mr. STEELE, still quite feeble, rose to close the argument for the defense. He claimed to have shown that the State had failed to prove guilt, and substituted only cruel suspicions against the prisoner. He took up the chemical testimony, reviewing it minutely, and claimed that it had not proved the essential fact that Gen. KETCHUM died of poison. Dr. AIKEN had been careless in his analysis, and the tests of Dr. TOXEY had not discovered poison. The counsel made an impassioned appeal in behalf of his client, and alluded to the long imprisonment she had suffered, and the terrible suspicions thrown upon her, declaring she could never be happy again. The argument closed at 12½ P. M., and a recess of ten minutes was taken.

A few minutes before 1 o'clock Attorney-General SYESTER began his argument before the jury. This was, he said, a case of circumstantial evidence, and he would admit that the last syllable of legal proof must be made before they could touch one hair of the prisoner's head. The laudanum vial found by SUSAN JACOBS, was, he contended, a device of Mrs. WHARTON'S, brought into the case by the prisoner herself to induce the belief that Gen. KETCHUM destroyed his own life. Counsel then took up the medical testimony of the experts in regard to death from cerebro-spinal meningitis, and criticised the testimony of Dr. WARREN and Dr. BALTZELL on this point, with the skill of an expert and the coolness of a surgeon during an operation. He evinced familiarity with the symptoms and characteristics of cerebro-spinal meningitis equal to that of any of the expers. He was arguing on the symptoms of hyperæsthesia, when a lady fainted in the Court-room, which caused considerable excitement, and it being only 2:55 o'clock, Judge MILLER adjourned the Court until to-morrow.

The Glass Assault—Costello Admitted to Bail.

Owing to the wonderful vitality of that robust ruffian JACK GLASS, he was yesterday pronounced by the physicians to be out of all danger from the numerous and terrible wounds received in the affray in the eating-saloon No. 109 Nassau-street, of which the TIMES published the only full account. Justice DOWLING being informed of the fact that GLASS was out of danger, hastened to admit JAMES COSTELLO, the assailant, to bail, and required him to give a bond in the sum of $1,000 only to appear and answer any indictment which may be found against him. There was general satisfaction among the respectable citizens of the Sixth Ward that the noted JACK had at last received payment in kind for his numerous assaults, which was, however, somewhat tempered by the prospect of his speedy recovery. At 1 o'clock this morning the surgeons considered he was progressing favorably.

Attempted Murder in Thirty-Fifth-Street.

At a late hour last night, JOHN RILEY, of No. 333 East Thirty-fifth-street, quarreled in Thirty-fifth-street, near Second-avenue, about his sister with one THOMAS MCCORMICK, and blows succeeding angry words, MCCORMICK stabbed RILEY in the back and neck with a pocket-knife, inflicting severe but not dangerous wounds. The assailant was not arrested.
